Eisenhower Plans To Sweep Out 'New Deal Thinkers,' Taft Reports

Lias Tax Hearing Ends With Judge Urging Settlement

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—The William G. Lias tax hearing ended today and Judge Clarence P. LeMire told the lawyers he still thought a settlement could be reached.

"This should have been settled before it ever came to this court," the judge said at the conclusion of a 48-day tax court hearing on a $2,850,000 tax claim against Lias.

He urged lawyers for Lias, owner of Wheeling Downs, W. Va., race track, and for the government to strive for an equitable settlement.

Sabres Rushed To W. Germany From England

WIESBADEN, Germany, March 16 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force rushed some fast new Sabre jet fighters from England today as an answer to Communist shooting attacks which have brought down an American fighter plane and a British bomber.

The Air Force said last week, after two Soviet-designed MIG-15 fighters of the Czechoslovak Air Force had shot down a U. S. Thunderjet, that 25 Sabres were being sent to Germany from the United States "very soon."

The announcement today said "a number" of F-86 Sabres, newer and faster than the F-84 Thunderjets stationed in Germany, had been brought in from the 81st Fighter-Bomber Wing stationed in England.

Apparently the Air Force decided it would not wait for the Sabres to arrive from America.

It was embarrassing to the Americans that neither the destroyed Thunderjet nor its companion got in a single shot in the attack by two MIGs near Regensburg in the American zone last Tuesday.

But the Sabre has proved a match for the MIG in Korea.

The Thunderjet pilot parachuted safely, but two days later seven British airmen were killed in a Lincoln bomber that was attacked by two Soviet MIGs near the East German border. Soviet fighters also made a mock attack on another Lincoln bomber over Western Germany and buzzed a British Viking transport along the air corridor to Berlin.

Claude R. Wickard Resigns As REA Chief

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—Claude R. Wickard resigned today as administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration.

He sent his resignation to President Eisenhower. The REA chief is a presidential appointee, although he serves under the secretary of agriculture.

Wickard is a former secretary of agriculture, having served in the Cabinet of the late President Roosevelt between mid-1940 and mid-1945.

Wickard was one of two Democrats holding term appointments in top policy-making posts in the Agriculture Department. The other is Ivy W. Duggan, governor of the Farm Credit Administration. Wickard's term was until June 30, 1955.

Byrd Says Pentagon Tries To Pass Buck In Ammo Row

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—An Army denial that its officers ever told senators that Congress has provided sufficient money for ammunition in Korea drew an angry retort today from Sen. Byrd (D-Va.).

"The Pentagon is trying to pass the buck to Congress," the Virginian shouted.

Byrd, who has been spearheading a congressional investigation of reported ammunition shortages in Korea, said the Army is trying "to put the burden on Congress after the military leaders testified themselves that we have given them every dollar they asked for."

An Army letter was written to the Senate Armed Services Committee last Thursday by Earl D. Johnson, as acting secretary of the Army. Johnson said the committee was in error in saying that officials had testified that

GOP Steps Up Drive To Get Own Team, Policies Operating

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said today President Eisenhower is getting ready to sweep out hundreds of top policy-making officials whom Taft described as "New Deal thinkers" left over from the Truman administration.

At the same time, the Eisenhower administration doused cold water on any move to revive the controversial health insurance program of the Truman regime, dubbed "socialized medicine" by its opponents.

These developments came as the new Republican administration began to shift into high gear its drive to get its own team and its own policies into operation.

White House Parley Held

Emerging from a White House conference, Taft told newsmen he expects Eisenhower to issue an executive order within a few days stripping away the civil service status that has protected the jobs of numerous policy-making officials.

Several administration leaders have complained that Democratic blanketings of many key jobs under civil service have made it impossible for them to name even their own top assistants in some cases.

Taft and House Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) who also attended the White House parley, both indicated that a thorough "housecleaning" is in the offing.

It was not immediately disclosed what departments or agencies would feel the brunt of the shake-up.

However, Martin said Eisenhower expects to announce a plan late this week to reshuffle the Agriculture Department. Martin said this plan does not call for any "violent changes," but seeks to improve the department's efficiency and organization.

Congressional leaders who sat in on the regular Monday morning White House session said Mobilization Director Arthur S. Flemming explained the projected executive order dealing with civil service.

Taft commented it was so complicated that he didn't understand it fully himself.

Danish Dancer Has Dates With Farouk

ROME, March 16 (AP)—A 19-year-old Danish dancer said today she is the blonde who has been having dates with former King Farouk since his separation from Queen Narriman.

Margarethe Rung Jorgenson of Copenhagen told newsmen she met Farouk last Thursday night—his same night Narriman took off with her mother for Switzerland. Farouk had a French blonde with him that night, but his interest apparently shifted to Margarethe.

The Danish dancer said she and Farouk had been out two or three times since then, including an appearance last night at George's American Bar, a favorite hangout of Italian aristocrats.

RAF 'Bombs' Germany

HIGH WYCOMBE, Eng., March 16 (AP)—Three waves of British bombers made flights into Western Germany tonight, leading off a six-day Royal Air Force exercise to repel a mock invader from the East.

funds for ammunition in Korea were adequate.

Johnson had appeared before the committee along with Secretary of the Army Stevens and Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff.

Byrd said he interpreted their testimony as showing that Congress had supplied necessary funds.

"The Defense Department has 80 billion dollars available in all funds and they have the transfer power so they can put whatever they desire into ammunition purchases," Byrd declared.

The dispute over whether there is sufficient ammunition in Korea has echoed in Congress since Gen. James A. Van Fleet, retiring Eighth Army commander, testified that his soldiers were handicapped by shortages during his 22 months in command.

British Police Surround Tito On His Arrival

LONDON, March 16 (AP)—President Tito of Yugoslavia, the first head of a Communist state to visit Britain, arrived by ship today for talks bearing vitally on Western defense plans in the Balkans.

Resplendent in naval uniform and gold braid, the smiling Red ruler was greeted by the Duke of Edinburgh, the husband of Queen Elizabeth II, Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

Immediately Tito was surrounded by swarms of police—many wearing bullet-proof vests. Scotland Yard imposed security precautions without recent parallel.

Tito told his welcome that he hoped his five-day visit "will greatly contribute to the further strengthening of the friendship, mutual understanding and collaboration between our two nations."

Among subjects expected to be discussed in Tito's talks here are Balkan defense, economic aid, Trieste and Yugoslavia's relations with Italy and the Vatican, and possibly even the matter of a formal pact of a political, economic or military nature.

British officials also are interested in Tito's evaluation of the impact of Joseph Stalin's death on world affairs. Yugoslavia was expelled from the Russian-led Cominform in 1948 for being too independent of the Kremlin.

The stocky and sun-tanned Tito arrived in British waters yesterday aboard the Yugoslav naval training ship Galeb (Seagull). His journey over the Thames today was delayed four hours by fog. He transferred to a launch for the last few miles into London.

Police on horseback, motorcycle and foot were everywhere. Streets leading to the pier were closed to all traffic. Crowds lined the embankment and Whitehall, the street which many government buildings are located, but police precautions were so stringent it would have been difficult for a hostile person to approach.

The precautions were dictated by fear of Communists fiercely loyal to Moscow. Tito-hating British Fascists and many Yugoslav monarchists who are living in British exile.

Delegates Vote To Double U. Of Md. Scholarship Allowance

ANNAPOLIS, March 16 (AP)—Delegates tonight voted to allow themselves an additional scholarship apiece to award at the University of Maryland.

They did so only after a sometimes heated argument over political implications of the grants of free tuition to young constituents and whether legislators should be involved at all.

In the end the delegates voted decisively for scholarships. Each may now have one student at a time in the university at College Park. The proposal by Dels. See and Driscoll (R-Allegany) would give them two. That is, if the Senate approves.

The House first voted to double its allowance, 92-11. Then Del. Wagner (D-Balto 2nd) asked for a reconsideration. Before the battle ended, Wagner had retreated, but another Baltimorean, Del. Tawney (D-3rd), insisted on a second vote. He was refused, 70-33.

Stage Set For A-Blast; Wind Major Factor

Scheduled Explosion Today To Test 1,000 Soldiers, Two Homes

ATOM BOMB SITE, Nev., March 16 (AP)—The unseen but deadly presence of poisonous radioactivity will be a primary factor in tomorrow's scheduled atomic explosion, testing a thousand soldiers and two typical American homes.

This was disclosed today by scientists of the Atomic Energy Commission in a pre-test briefing.

Dr. Alvin C. Graves, deputy test manager, said that while the nuclear gadget to be detonated from the top of a 300-foot tower will be of smaller power—equivalent to about 15,000 tons of conventional explosive—than big atomic bombs, "the amount of contamination will be quite large."

The reason is that the low altitude burst is expected to create an enormous dust cloud, probably a mile or more across at the outset. And this dust will be powerfully impregnated with fission products from the bursting bomb.

The dust cloud, Graves commented conservatively, "must be watched with caution."

He explained that "we would not want the wind to roll the cloud over troops who will be within 3,500 yards" or have it eventually drift over and settle on nearby communities.

Therefore wind conditions at zero hour tomorrow must be precisely right or the test will be postponed.

Plane To Gather Data

The briefing also brought word that a remote-controlled Navy AD-2 Skyraider jet plane will be flown aloft into the very core of the explosion tomorrow.

The purpose of this is to provide the Navy with "valuable data for design of new aircraft and the improvement of tactics," said Col. Paul T. Preuss, United States Air Force officer who is the weapons effect test director for the armed forces special weapons project in Albuquerque, N. M.

Preuss' laconic reference strongly suggested that the Navy looks to this test to develop tactical jet-powered drones to drop A-bombs on enemy fleets or enemy troops. The AD-2 is capable of carrying nuclear bombs.

Russ Alaskan Flights Likely

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—Air Force officials said tonight they believe unidentified aircraft, probably Russian, have made infrequent reconnaissance flights over Alaska and the northern parts of Canada.

The officials, asked about the published reports that the Red strategic air command was making periodic survey flights over North America, said that the probable Russian appearances were "less than intermittent and might more accurately be called scattered."

High Air Force sources added that no aircraft of possible Russian origin, had actually been seen and that none had been intercepted by U. S. planes. One official said that there was considerable evidence, however, that some Russian flights had been made but that the evidence pointed to no discernible pattern.

Today's Chuckle

Why advertise your troubles? There's no market for them.

Looking Down On Atomic Explosion

This is how one of last year's atom bomb test explosions in Nevada looked from the air. This sequence, starting with the appearance of the intensely bright fireball and carrying through various stages of the mushroom cloud formation, was made from a U. S. Air Force plane. These views, made public yesterday for the first time, are from a Department of Defense film.

Voice Waste On Antennae Is Reported

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—An exasperated engineer testified today the Voice of America is wasting more than $850,000 on the construction of radio transmitters which, he said, may prove inadequate for the broadcasting job to be done.

Albert C. Veldhuis told the Senate investigations subcommittee that architect-engineers in charge of the program either spurned or ignored any advice his company gave them.

Personally, he said, he thinks the architect-engineers are incompetent.

"I have been driven on several occasions practically to despair," Veldhuis said in describing attempts to get changes in the design of the transmitting towers. He added that he felt he "couldn't cope with this situation."

$1,700,000 Contract

Veldhuis is chief engineer of the Wind Turbine Company of Westchester, Pa., which received a contract in August, 1950, to build some "curtain" antennae for transmitters costing $1,700,000. He testified "a possible saving of at least 50 per cent could have been achieved" with different designing.

A certain antenna is one which employs a curtain or screen-like arrangement of wires to beam its signals.

"How can you explain such stupidity as that?" asked Roy Cohn, the subcommittee's general counsel.

"There are things which I cannot explain," the witness replied.

McCarthy Heads Probe

The Senate group, headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), is searching for any evidence of waste or subversion in the State Department's propaganda program, most of which is handled by the Voice of America.

When he raised questions about the transmitters, Veldhuis said, George Q. Herrick, then chief engineer for the Voice, agreed that he could inspect reports on tests made with models. But the architect-engineers flatly refused to let him look at them, he added.

Supreme Court Rules States May Halt Peaceful Picketing

AEC Turns Down Blast Volunteer

BURBANK, Calif., March 16 (INS)—The bid of an ex-movie bit player to serve as a live guinea pig at tomorrow's A-bomb test near Las Vegas was turned down today by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The AEC said they "wouldn't consider it" when Joe Holloway asked to substitute for one of the mannequins for the test.

His estranged wife, Dorothy, who moved out last week after an argument said she was glad the AEC would not let Joe go through with it and that now she is willing to "talk our problems over."

Aussie And Yank Pilots Knock Out Big Red Convoy

SEOUL, Korea, Tuesday, March 17 (AP)—Communist trucks hurried along North Korea's battered roads in unusually large numbers Monday but alert Australian and American jet pilots trapped a one-mile-long convoy and destroyed or damaged more than 100 vehicles.

Sabre jets destroyed one Communist MIG fighter in a brief air battle near the Manchurian border, the Air Force said.

Most of the trucks were stranded and riddled by low-level attacks on the Wonsan-Yangdok road behind the Eastern Front. At least 26 trucks were smashed and 75 more knocked out in strafing runs, the Air Force said.

Roaring gasoline fires and explosions ripped through the stalled convoy when it was bottled up on a mountain road.

Earlier, night-firing Allied artillery was directed on six Red vehicles in the Satae Valley on the Western Front and three were knocked out. A large explosion after the artillery blasting indicated ammunition was being carried to the front.

Grammer, Denied New Trial, Faces Hanging Or Life Term

BALTIMORE, March 16 (AP)—George Edward Grammer, convicted of slaying his wife last August for the love of another woman and trying to make it look like an automobile accident, today lost his plea for a new trial.

He faces hanging or a life prison term as the result, but he still has recourse to the Court of Appeals at Annapolis and Gov. McKeldin.

Baltimore's Supreme Bench, made up of the judges who rotate in the various divisions of Circuit Court here, split 8-2 in finding Grammer had a fair, impartial and error-free trial last October.

The two dissenters argued the flood of news about the sensational case had prevented Grammer from having a trial by jury.

Judge Herman M. Moser did not

Red Premier Asked To Back Up Peace Talk

Knowland Demands Prompt Showdown With Soviet In U.N.

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—The United States joined other Western countries today in challenging Soviet Premier Malenkov to prove the sincerity of his inaugural talk about world peace with action.

The State Department tempered its challenge, however, with a statement that it received "with interest" the assertion by the new Soviet leader that all issues with the United States and other nations could be settled peacefully.

It noted also as of some significance that Malenkov in his inaugural address to the Supreme Soviet in Moscow yesterday "barely mentioned" the name of the late Joseph Stalin, his predecessor.

Other Western capitals, including London and Bonn, voiced a direct deeds-not-words reaction to Malenkov's unusually soft spoken speech.

Congress heard from Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) a demand for a prompt showdown with the Communist bloc in the United Nations.

Knowland, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, proposed the new administration move to have the U. N. brand Russia as an aggressor and violator of the U. N. Charter. He urged that the U. S. ask other U. N. members to withdraw recognition of Red China and to declare a complete embargo or blockade of supplies to the Chinese Communists.

It is time, he said, that the nations of the free world "stand up and be counted."

Malenkov stirred real interest within the administration and abroad with his statement that all "troublesome and unsolved" issues with the U. S. and other countries can be solved peacefully. Also noted with interest here was the absence in his talk of the usual Communist tirades against American "war mongers" and "imperialists." Since Stalin's death Soviet officials and press organs have avoided these terms as well as any attacks on President Eisenhower personally.

The State Department, in a statement read by Press Officer Lincoln White, took its cue to a degree from this more hopeful attitude. White told newsmen it was an informal statement but fully authorized, although not cleared personally by Secretary of State Dulles.

Bette Davis Loses Section Of Jawbone

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP)—Actress Bette Davis had a section of infected jawbone removed today in a 2½-hour operation at New York Hospital.

A spokesman said Miss Davis would be in the hospital a week or 10 days.

She went to the hospital a week ago and had an infected tooth extracted. On the advice of her physician she remained at the hospital, forcing the closing of "Two's Company," Broadway musical in which she starred.

UMW Raps Ike On T-H

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—The United Mine Workers Journal said today President Eisenhower seems to have "surrendered" to Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) on revising the Taft-Hartley Act.

participate in today's decision, since he heard the evidence as both judge and jury at Grammer's request and returned the first degree murder verdict.

Judge Moser now has the task of sentencing Grammer either to death or life imprisonment, the only two punishments possible under his earlier verdict.

The eight judges of the majority rejected all the reasons the defense had given for asking the new trial, including the argument publicity had prejudiced the case.

Six of the eight judges did, however, criticize the state's attorneys for Baltimore and Baltimore County for appearing on a television newscast about the case at the time Grammer was charged with murder.

Most of the trucks were stranded and riddled by low-level attacks on the Wonsan-Yangdok road behind the Eastern Front. At least 26 trucks were smashed and 75 more knocked out in strafing runs, the Air Force said.

Roaring gasoline fires and explosions ripped through the stalled convoy when it was bottled up on a mountain road.

Earlier, night-firing Allied artillery was directed on six Red vehicles in the Satae Valley on the Western Front and three were knocked out. A large explosion after the artillery blasting indicated ammunition was being carried to the front.

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—

The Supreme Court today upheld the right of Virginia courts to halt peaceful picketing if it conflicts with the state's right-to-work law.

The Virginia law says the right to work may not be denied because of membership or non-membership in a labor union. It makes illegal any agreement between an employer and a union by which a non-union worker is barred from working.

Justice Douglas, dissenting, called the court's 7-2 decision "a broadside against all picketing." Justice Black also dissented, but did not set forth his reasons.

Justice Burton, reading the majority opinion, said the picketing involved "was undertaken and carried on with at least one of its substantial purposes in conflict with the declared policy of Virginia."

He said union picketing of a school construction project in Richmond in 1950 was "done at such a place and in such a manner that, coupled with established union policies and traditions, it caused the union men to stop work and thus slow the project to a general standstill."

In other major decisions today, the court:

1. Gave the go-ahead for a private utility, Virginia Electric and Power Company, to build a multi-million dollar hydroelectric plant on the Roanoke River at Roanoke Rapids, N. C.

The court's 6-3 decision ended a bitter-four-year dispute between former Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman and the Federal Power Commission. The commission issued the Virginia power company a license for the project. Chapman contended the plant should be built by the government.

2. Divided 5-4 in ruling that an alien not another country wants may be held indefinitely on Ellis Island if the United States considers him a security risk. Dissenting justices said this could mean the rest of the alien's life.

3. Refused for the time being, to pass on the legality of Michigan's anti-Communist law.

4. Affirmed, 6-2, an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission requiring low freight rates on vegetables shipped from Texas to various points in the country.

Red Premier Asked To Back Up Peace Talk

Knowland Demands
Prompt Showdown
With Soviet In U.N.

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—The United States joined other Western countries today in challenging Soviet Premier Malenkov to prove the sincerity of his inaugural talk about world peace with action.

The State Department tempered its challenge, however, with a statement that it received "with interest" the assertion by the Soviet leader that all issues with the United States and other nations could be settled peaceably.

It noted also as of some significance that Malenkov in his inaugural address to the Supreme Soviet in Moscow yesterday "barely mentioned" the name of the late Joseph Stalin, his predecessor.

Other Western capitals, including London and Bonn, voiced a direct deeds-not-words reaction to Malenkov's unusually soft spoken speech.

Congress heard from Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) a demand for a prompt showdown with the Communist bloc in the United Nations.

Knowland, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, proposed the new administration move to have the U. N. brand Russia as an aggressor and violator of the U. N. Charter. He urged that the U. S. ask other U. N. members to withdraw recognition of Red China and to declare a complete embargo or blockade of supplies to the Chinese Communists.

It is time, he said, that the nations of the free world "stand up and be counted."

Malenkov stirred real interest within the administration and abroad with his statement that all "troublesome and unsolved" issues with the U. S. and other countries can be solved peacefully. Also noted with interest here was the absence in his talk of the usual Communist tirades against American "war mongers" and "imperialists." Since Stalin's death Soviet officials and press organs have avoided these terms as well as any attacks on President Eisenhower personally.

The State Department, in a statement read by Press Officer Lincoln White, took its cue to a degree from this more hopeful attitude. White told newsmen it was an informal statement but fully authorized, although not cleared personally by Secretary of State Dulles.

Grammer, Denied New Trial, Faces Hanging Or Life Term

BALTIMORE, March 16 (AP)—George Edward Grammer, convicted of slaying his wife last August for the love of another woman and trying to make it look like an automobile accident, today lost his plea for a new trial.

He faces hanging or a life prison term as the result, but he still has recourse to the Court of Appeals at Annapolis and Gov. McKeldin.

Baltimore's Supreme Bench, made up of the judges who rotate in the various divisions of Circuit Court here, split 8-2 in finding Grammer had a fair, impartial and error-free trial last October.

The two dissenters argued the flood of news about the sensational case had prevented Grammer from having a trial by jury.

Judge Herman M. Moser did not participate in today's decision, since he heard the evidence as both judge and jury at Grammer's request and returned the first degree murder verdict.

Judge Moser now has the task of sentencing Grammer either to death or life imprisonment, the only two punishments possible under his earlier verdict.

The eight judges of the majority rejected all the reasons the defense had given for asking the new trial, including the argument publicity had prejudiced the case.

Six of the eight judges did, however, criticize the state's attorneys for Baltimore and Baltimore County for appearing on a television newscast about the case at the time Grammer was charged with murder.

U. S. Air Defense Is Held Possible

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—A study made by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology for the air forces reaches a conclusion, it was learned today, that it is possible to build a truly effective air defense for the United States.

The cost would be large—possibly 20 billion dollars. This, and the possible effect on offensive power of devoting so much effort to defense, are among factors the Defense Department necessarily is weighing in considering the MIT study.

Whether such a defense could be set up and what it would take—rather than whether it should be done—was the main point of the investigation.

An Air Force spokesman told reporters of the study but for security reasons did not disclose the technical nature of the defense plan. It is known, however, that the study lays stress on recent developments in guided missiles and electronic devices.

Air Force officers have repeatedly said in recent years that it would be impossible to stop a determined enemy air assault completely—that some bombers would get through.

Hungarians Walk Out Of Stalin Ceremony

VIENNA, Austria, March 16 (AP)—Disorders broke out at a Stalin commemoration ceremony in Budapest last week, the American-sponsored Vienna radio station, Red-White-Red, claimed today.

Quoting eyewitness reports, the radio said Hungarian workers, ordered to attend the meeting in front of the late Soviet dictator's monument, left the ceremony when the Russian anthem was played.

Breaking through strong police cordons, they halted only when the Hungarian national anthem was struck up. When that stopped, they continued their flight, the radio said.

Egyptian Trapped By Customs Agent

BALTIMORE, March 16 (AP)—A customs agent who posed as a big time racketeer told today of buying two batches of opium worth about $3,000 from an Egyptian seaman over the weekend.

As a result, Abou Roumia, 47-year-old quartermaster of the Egyptian freighter Kahadive Ismail, was arrested and charged with smuggling.

A customs squad searched the freighter while it was loading grain at a waterfront elevator and arrested another member of the crew. He later was released for lack of evidence.

Stanley Hall, assistant supervising agent and a veteran of 17 years in the customs service, told of making the two purchases from Abou Roumia.

Fire Chief's Wife Dies While Spreading Alarm

GLEN BURNIE, Md., March 16 (AP)—Mrs. Phoebe Griffith, wife of Glen Burnie's fire chief, died of a heart attack today while spreading the alarm for a pre-dawn lumberyard fire that caused an estimated $100,000 damage.

Three firemen were injured in the two-hour battle to keep the flames that swept the J. F. Johnson Lumber Co. from spreading to the business district.

The 51-year-old Mrs. Griffith, whose husband was taken to University Hospital in Baltimore late yesterday with pneumonia, began calling fire companies in nearby communities when the alarm came in about 1:50 a.m. She collapsed at the telephone and died of a heart attack at the hospital where her husband is a patient.

China And The Kremlin

As the new regime in Soviet Russia assumes responsibility, the eyes of the world are focused on the complex relationship between the Kremlin and the Communist leadership in China. "With Stalin gone, can Malenkov keep Red China in a war that must be as distasteful to the Communist leaders as it is costly to the Chinese people?" the Voice of America has been asking in a series of broadcasts beamed at China.

British Foreign Secretary Eden put it another way in an address to the UN General Assembly on February 11: "If we look a little further into the future, need we despair that there can never be a change of heart in China and North Korea?" But in the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda, Gen. Mao Tse-tung, chairman of the Central Government of China, on March 10 reaffirmed as "indestructible" the "front of friendship and solidarity" between the Russian and Chinese Communists.

The Soviet Union has given more or less active support to the Chinese Communist party since this was founded in 1921. The Chinese C.P. joined the Comintern two years later. A few months before his party gained complete power on the Chinese mainland, in 1949, Mao wrote, "We belong to the anti-imperialist front, headed by the USSR, and we can look for genuine friendly aid only from that front and not from the (Anglo-American) imperialist front."

But the formal alliance between Russia and Communist China dates only from their treaty of February 1950. This provided for a 30-year alliance. It supplanted—though in many respects it was founded upon—a Soviet-Chinese (Nationalist) treaty of 1945. On the surface, China got the better of the bargain.

The Chinese Changchun Railway was to be transferred to Red China by the end of 1952, not kept under the 30-year joint operation provided for in 1945. The Port Arthur naval base also was to be turned over to Red China in 1952. The Chinese Communists were to take over the administration of Dairen in 1950, but the "question of Dairen harbor" was to be given further consideration. Russia granted a $300 million credit to China.

Reports at the time hinted at secret annexes under which China handed over ports to the Soviets, gave Russia economic concessions, undertook to send Chinese laborers to Russia. Subsequent agreements in 1950 established two joint Sino-Soviet companies to exploit oil and metal resources in Sinkiang province and a similar company to develop airlines from Peking to Siberia and to Russian Central Asia.

Since the Korean War outbreak, the USSR has supplied an increasing proportion of China's imports—72 per cent at latest report—including the vast bulk of China's war goods. And an agreement reached in September 1952 presumably provided for increased Russian economic aid to Mao. But the price was high. China "asked" the Soviets to remain in Port Arthur, pending a peace settlement with Japan. No mention was made of Dairen.

On the third anniversary of the 1950 pact (February 13, 1953) Mao thanked Stalin for Russia's "truly selfless help" in building up the economy of Red China. Part of the "help" was identified on March 2 when Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vishinsky admitted to the UN General Assembly that Russia "sold and continues to sell armaments" to China in exchange for "strategic materials" under the 1950 pact.

Magsaysay For Prexy?

The Philippine Republic is having an election in November, and there is a fair chance that the choice of the people will prove to be Ramon Magsaysay. At the moment Magsaysay has been forced to resign as defense secretary because President Quirino withdrew his confidence and support, but this may help promote Magsaysay's candidacy.

Experienced politicians believe that a better way to get rid of a political rival is to kick him upstairs—instead of martyring him, giving him a job with prestige, but one which cannot be exploited for personal publicity.

Magsaysay is a man who gets things done. In 1951 Quirino ordered the Philippine army to maintain order and assure an honest election, for a change. Magsaysay did too good a job. The Liberal party, to which he and Quirino both belong, suffered a severe setback.

More recently, Magsaysay seems to have done an excellent job of subduing the Hukbalahap movement. The Huks, originally an indigenous resistance movement, had fallen under Communist control and were receiving supplies and advisers by submarine. Magsaysay failed to wipe them out, but he was the first man to make real headway against them.

The jobless Magsaysay is now being sought as presidential candidate by the opposition Nationalist party. Philippine voters might well feel that it's time for a change.

Zing-Zing, Zoom-Zoom

The American standard of living is the highest in the world, but there is a fly in the amber. American progress is remarkable, but there are bugs in it. This point was brought out recently by a bug specialist, Dr. Bailey B. Pepper, New Jersey Agriculture Department entomologist. And the bugs he was talking about were, or so his detractors allege, a specialty of the great commonwealth he represents.

Progress and a high standard of living, he told the New Jersey Mosquito Extermination Association, bring more mosquitoes in their wake. People scatter over the countryside. They eat more. They account for wider mosquito breeding areas, more garbage and domestic sewage. Thus the mosquitoes, too, are better fed and better housed. So presently, zing-zing, zoom-zoom, they turn upon their benefactors with hypodermic ingratitude.

A few more mosquito bites may be a small price to pay for progress and prosperity. Are there really fewer mosquitoes during periods of depression? There is some comfort in the reflection that better times, which encourage the prowling mosquito, have also provided DDT. Even today, Emerson's law of compensation sometimes works.

European Turkey Shoot

There is conjecture that recent Russian attacks on American and British planes were retaliatory moves for refusal of Allied authorities to return at once the MIG-15 which a Polish pilot landed in Denmark several days ago.

The U. S. government is now perfectly justified in instituting a "shoot-on-sight" policy in Western Europe. It's either that or submit to a gradually intensified European turkey shoot.

Weakness Characterizes Multiple Sclerosis

Multiple Sclerosis is one of our most puzzling diseases; the cause is obscure and we have no treatment. However, an intensive research program is being carried on in an attempt to unscramble the puzzle. The need is urgent because, altho the malady was rare in this country until 15 years ago, it is estimated that there are now 250,000 victims.

This disorder prefers the young and the middle aged and has no regard for sex, race, or stratum of society. Symptoms result from destruction of the fatty myelin sheaths that surround the nerves in different parts of the brain and spinal cord. This insulating material is replaced by scar tissue and there are many such areas (multiple) of nerve degeneration (sclerosis). No one has been able to discover what initiates the process but many divergent opinions along this line have been offered. Cyanide poisoning has been blamed by some; others believe that the sheaths are destroyed by a circulatory or an allergic disturbance. At any rate, treatment will be hampered until this phase is settled.

The course of multiple sclerosis is variable and in many instances symptoms appear, remain for several weeks, and then disappear. Several months or years may elapse before a return engagement occurs. The story of Peter, a middle aged executive, is typical. He noted weakness of the right leg after walking two blocks. Within a few weeks he recovered spontaneously but three years later the condition returned and this time the other extremity was involved.

Because of the diffuse nature of the process it is difficult to predict how the ailment will begin. Many encounter disorders of sensation varying from pain to numbness. The skin may feel hot or cold or as though some one were drawing a wisp of cotton or a cobweb over a given area. Others complain of a peculiar feeling in the eyes as tho a curtain were being drawn gradually across the field of vision. Others are disturbed when they look at the furniture or floor because there seems to be a constant state of vibratory motion. Dizziness also exists and now and then the loss of equilibrium is so marked the individual is accused of drunkenness. When the degenerative process effects the speech center, difficulty in talking is common. Other disturbances include muscular weakness and stiffness of the lower limbs. These abnormalities rarely prove incapacitating until a late stage of the disease; 25 to 30 years may pass before the sufferer is handicapped to this extent.

There is no specific treatment. Physical therapy is recommended to strengthen weak muscles and loosen the tight ones. With good care, many victims are able to improve coordination and motor efficiency. Handicrafts and hobbies help considerably along this line. An adequate diet is of value, as well as the avoidance of excitement and overfatigue. Because the current theory as to the cause centers about the circulation, most of the remedies consist of dilating drugs such as histamine, amylinitrile, papaverine, nicotinic acid, and tetraethylammonium chloride.

COUGH AND PREGNANCY

Mrs. N. writes: Could a chronic cough in a woman be responsible for the fact that the baby was born with a ruptured navel? If not, what would cause this difficulty in the child?

REPLY: Your coughing had nothing to do with it. A small percentage of children are left with umbilical hernias and some ultimately require surgery. These hernias are the result of imperfect closure or weakness of the muscles surrounding the navel.

HYDROCHLORIC ACID

L. P. writes: What is hydrochloric acid?

REPLY: A combination of hydrogen and chlorine. This acid is manufactured in the stomach and is used principally to digest meats and other proteins. The substance is not absolutely necessary because there are other acids in the stomach. Furthermore, many healthy individuals have no free hydrochloric acid.

BLOOD AND PRESSURE

J. M. writes: I am 68 years old with a blood pressure of 210. Would giving away a pint or two of blood twice a year help me?

REPLY: Most men and women with high blood pressure frequently are plethoric and in this respect have more blood than they need. On the other hand, your donation may be refused by such agencies as the Red Cross.

ULCER PAIN

T. F. writes: What kind of pain do you get from stomach ulcer?

REPLY: The most common type is a burning or gnawing sensation, which is most noticeable an inch to the right and slightly above the navel. Distress occurs two or three hours after eating. The taking of food, baking soda, or other alkali will bring relief.

British Fear Our Present Far East Policy May Provoke Russians; Unhappy Taxpayers Take Pen In Hand; Ike Combines Fun, Business In Augusta

WASHINGTON — Though the most publicized part of Anthony Eden's visit was economic, the most significant part was an attempt to tone down what the British regard as our dangerous policy in the Far East.

The British foreign minister was not too happy with the result.

He feels that Eisenhower's advisers are intent on doing something in the Far East just for the sake of doing; that they are placing last fall's campaign pledges ahead of international safety; and that if the Russians are pushed too hard, especially since Stalin's death, we'll "incident" ourselves into war.

A few more incidents such as the shooting down of U. S. S-1 British planes over Germany, the British feel, will either make us lose complete face with our allies or eventually arouse popular demand for retaliatory action. Either is dangerous.

Psychological Warfare

In the present struggle for power among nations, the fact has to be recognized that such private negotiations as occurred at the Congress of Vienna (1815) or even at Yalta (1945) no longer are satisfactory. The recent Anglo-American negotiations in Washington were so secret as to lead to confusing rumors.

In all countries, except those behind the iron curtain, public opinion does express itself, often in the form of mass demonstrations. The weapon of psychological warfare therefore is cultivated and strengthened with the object of winning masses of the people to one side or the other.

The "Voice of America" is a device of psychological warfare. Its object is to win friends not among government officials but among the people in favor of the United States. Our hope is that most of the people will become antagonistic to Soviet Russia and the Communist party. It should further be designed to vitiate any tendency toward neutralism.

In the present investigation conducted by the McCarthy Committee, no attack is being made against the theory of psychological warfare. However, certain phases of this process have been selected to indicate that in the "Voice of America" there has been an area of activity which has been used against the interests of the United States. This does not mean that everything about the "Voice of America" is wrong or that such a device need be abandoned.

For instance, we might go back to the testimony of Virgil H. Fulling, chief of the Latin-American News Service, who has been trying to do a thoroughly American job. He tells of a pro-American demonstration in Guatemala, which is now the Communist outpost on the American continent. Fulling wanted to give that demonstration an enthusiastic display over the "Voice of America." He wrote a script in which he used the term "anti-Communist." Now, let us look at the colloquy on that subject:

Counsel Roy Cohn. "... Had anything been crossed out of the script?"

"Mr. Fulling. Yes, sir. Where the term 'anti-Communist' had been used, that was crossed out..."

Eden's view is shared by many career advisers in the State Department. They feel that recent Russian air bullying has been a deliberate warning that two can play at the game of "get tough," and that if we get tough in the Far East, Russia can get even tougher in Europe. And if there's too much playing at this game, they advise, the eventual result is war.

Tax Laughs

Here is a cross-section of mail from unhappy taxpayers flooding the Internal Revenue Bureau around March 15. As usual, there were indignant, tongue-in-cheek letters from Irish-Americans that the annual income-tax gouge was a "British plot" to spoil the celebration of St. Patrick's Day. Also the usual query regarding surtaxes. A lady in New York wrote: "Do women have to pay that 'sir' tax?" ... A Kansan, filling out a joint return, told his tax collector he didn't have a spouse, but was "happily married to a wife." ... A sardonic Texan wrote: "The difference between death and taxes is that death doesn't get worse every time Congress meets." ... An Arkansas taxpayer, who recently started a business with his son, received some withholding tax forms from the bureau and replied: "My son and I have studied the prospectus you sent us and the application form for membership in your organization. We have decided, however, after due consideration, that we do not care to join your organization at this time." ... A Baltimorean, with 14 children described himself in his tax return as a "production manager."

California agents were nonplused by an elderly woman who reported, in filling out a joint return, that her husband was blind.

"It will still be necessary for him to sign the joint return," she was told. "Would it be possible for you to bring him in here with you?"

"Oh, yes," the lady replied cheerfully. "He'll be in shortly. He's parking the car."

Ike's Fun And Business

Covering the President when he goes to Augusta, Ga., is a tough problem for the White House news contingent. Lists of callers are not posted, as at the White House in Washington. News men aren't encouraged around the golf club.

Some of what the President does is unimportant, some important. In the unimportant category: Ike calls his Negro caddy, Willie Perret, "Cemetery," because a girl friend once carved him up in a tavern. ... Ike still uses military terms. When about to take a picture of his Bobby Jones portrait, Ike said: "I've sent Nell to get Mamie to turn out for this formalization, but she's tired of photographers." ... Nell is Mrs. Robert Woodruff, whose husband is head of Coca Cola.

In the important category: Ike golfed with John Hay Whitney, husband of the first Mrs. Jimmie Roosevelt, and dominant figure in Freeport Sulphur. His company is trying to lease or buy from Ike's subordinate the huge U. S. government nickel plant in Cuba. ... Also visiting Ike were Ellis Slater, Frankfort Distillers; John Budder, the investment banker; Bob Woodruff of Coca Cola; and William Robinson, executive vice president of the N. Y. Herald Tribune.

Battle For Oil

After ex-Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman finished testifying at the tidelands oil hearings recently, Texas' new senator, Price Daniel, came over to him and remarked:

"Oscar, I've never agreed with your position, but you've made a tough case for us. You're the most effective witness ever to testify against us."

Chapman had reminded Republicans that federal control of public lands was started by Republican President Teddy Roosevelt, not by the Democrats. He gently chided Nebraska's Senator, Butler for proposing to turn all public lands back to the states. He warned that if Mid-east oil is cut off, the U. S. Navy would desperately need submerged oil. Most telling of all, he reminded the oil companies that if the Holland or Daniel bills are passed, the oil companies won't be able to drill for about 10 years; because tidelands oil will be tied up in litigation.

Chapman also indicated that the Eisenhower administration had now shifted its position three times on tidelands oil.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Perhaps the most important speech on the subject of the safety of the United States that has been made in a decade or more got scant attention here last week. It was delivered by Senator Stuart Symington, Democrat, of Missouri and formerly secretary of the Air Force under President Truman.

Mr. Symington pulled no punches. What he said was a more severe indictment of the Truman administration than any Republican ever made. Likewise, it was an indictment of the American press as well as members of Congress of both parties who have failed to ferret out the facts behind a blanket of secrecy that has hidden the truth about the "defense mess" as effectively as if there had been a dictatorship in power in Washington.

"Truth," said Mr. Symington, as he spoke before the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin's forum, "is essential to the workings of a government such as ours, one that is based upon the consent of the governed."

There are sentences in the Symington speech that should bring about the broadest kind of congressional investigation. Yet, 10 days ago when Senator Taft, Republican leader, vaguely hinted that such a broad inquiry might possibly be desirable, he was immediately jumped upon by other members of Congress and by certain sections of the press because it was said some comfort might be given the enemy through the disclosure of "secret information"—the oldest of alibis to cover up incompetence and negligence.

Enemy Already Known

But what Senator Symington is talking about the enemy already knows. Only the American people are being deprived of the truth.

When the Missouri senator says the face of the world was changed "on the day the Soviet Union exploded the atomic bomb in September 1949," he not only takes issue with Mr. Truman—who says the Soviet Union hasn't got the bomb—but, without mentioning the former President, Mr. Symington went on to say:

"Eight months later, in May 1950, our government announced that hopes for peace were better than at any time since World War II and that therefore even less money would be required for defense the following year. That was May. In June, the Communists struck in Korea."

It was Mr. Truman's own announcement about the prospects of peace and it was Mr. Truman's recommendation that less money be spent for defense. General Eisenhower was called in at the time to give window dressing to the budget, but all he could do was to examine the items—not to pass judgment on the over-all money limitation already fixed by President Truman and the Budget Bureau.

But there is even more significance in the other parts of the speech of Senator Symington when he says:

"For a long time, both before and after the start of the Korean War, we followed the advice of those Pentagon people who glibly explained to the National Security Council why America could not afford rearmament."

"Certain fiscal leaders, who should have been talking about fiscal affairs, suddenly became military experts, and advanced the cause of one type of jet engine over another."

Who were these "Pentagon people" and who were these "fiscal experts?" The country has a right to know. And why, and upon whose advice, did President Truman refuse early in 1950 to allow the spending of $500,000,000 which both houses of Congress had appropriated for additional air power? This correspondent was almost alone at that time in criticizing the President's action. Mr. Symington and the Air Force had to remain silent.

As for the "fiscal experts," the American people don't know that the military men whose lives are spent in studying weapons and strategy were forced to take a backseat when Mr. Truman's director of the budget entered the picture and said in effect what weapons should be bought. This was true in the Roosevelt administration, too. General MacArthur in the Philippines, before the Japanese attack in 1941, was clamoring for bomber and fighter planes, and so were Admiral Kimmel and General Short before Pearl Harbor. But the Budget Bureau had never approved the sums needed for such a build-up. A thorough inquiry as to how the Budget Bureau substituted its judgment for that of military men in the last 20 years would be revealing, indeed.

Diplomats Replace Military Men

"Certain scientists," continues Senator Symington, "who should have stuck to science desired to enter politics, so they wrote vague, misleading books on military strategy and became so-called experts on the organization of the Department of Defense."

Did the senator have in mind Dr. Vannevar Bush, scientist, whose book discussing future strategy said piloted airplanes and naval carriers would soon be outmoded and who, also, made several speeches recently in criticism of the organizational setup of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Defense Department?

The Missouri senator asks a series of penetrating questions—among them: "Why don't we use the atomic bomb on military targets in North Korea?" Lots of people have asked that same question, but only evasive answers are given by military commanders who say "that's a decision to be made at other levels." It seems military men don't fight the wars today or call the signals—that's the function of the diplomats.

Now comes General Van Fleet to declare, as Mr. Symington phrases it, that "every month during the 22 months he had been in Korea, there had been a serious shortage of ammunition which at times became critical."

Senator Symington with characteristic candor and courage finally sums up the situation thus: "Rather than coming up with the truth to the people, we follow the tragic steps of certain World War II allies by again attempting to purchase a nervous neutrality."

When will Congress authorize a real investigation of what has been going on in the Pentagon, of what has been going on in the Budget Bureau, and what has been going on in the State Department since 1945, and give the American people the facts which have thus far been suppressed but which are known to Communists and have already given them the greatest aid and comfort? A Democrat now has challenged the entire Republican party to show some courage and investigate the truth and point the finger of blame where it belongs.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (INS) — Too bad you folks who read this out of reach of Las Vegas won't be able to take part in Sheppard's great atomic bomb sale.

Maybe you missed the full-page ad in the Las Vegas Review-Journal, one of the finer organs of the west. It went:

"Sheppard's great atomic bomb sale!" "Starts the minute the 'St. Pat' atomic bomb is exploded. (Regardless of the time of day or night) Come immediately to our store. In conjunction with the firing of the famous 'St. Pat' atomic bomb which will be heard and seen over most of the continent, Sheppard's offers still greater values in furniture, carpeting and electric appliances!"

Sorry I had to miss it. It must have been a dinger. Got tied up at Yucca, where I kept thinking about what happened to the contributions of the J. C. Penney Company and of Darling and Company, of Bronson, Mich. The latter are just about the biggest makers of department store window dummies in the world. The former dressed them and produced in Hillman R. Lee, manager of the Las Vegas store, a man with keen rapport with the atomic times. To wit:

"One of the purposes of Operation St. Pat is to determine the effects of an atomic explosion on various fabrics and materials used in today's wearing apparel. On the 50 mannequins pictured below we have men's, women's and children's clothing, consisting of all types of fabrics and materials, including wools, rayons, nylons, orlons, cottons, denims, crepes, flannels and many others."

"The outcome of this test is unpredictable, but the results of the evaluation may be a powerful factor in deciding fashion trends in years to come."

Bravely said, Mr. L., and you are one with merchandising history. When Mr. L. mentioned "below" he wasn't kidding. He printed 50 shots of mannequins of all ages and sexes he dressed for the sole purpose of becoming children, women and men of extinction.

I saw some of Mr. Lee's and Mrs. Darling's handwork Sunday, about 48 hours before a lot of same was scheduled to be reduced to radioactive ash and sucked up into the shape of a mushroom, and, believe me, it was one of the eeriest experiences of my life.

There are elements of foolishness about walking into the dining room of a pleasant suburban-type home ($29,000 job, by the way) and coming upon four mannequins of the rival sexes engaged in what appears to be lively conversation that escapes mortal ears.

All of them looked so much healthier than the reporters and civil defense people who stood around them, shyly. Someone finally broke the ice by asking: "Holy cow, what kind of cocktails did that dame serve before dinner?"

Then there were the children, romping stiffly in plastic loveliness (filled with buckshot so that they would weigh as much as regular un-romping, non-lovely children). Broke a lot of our hearts to realize that the shadow of that 300-foot tower, and its deceptively ridiculous bomb-store on top, fell across them—as the threat of these ghastly things might fall across all of our children.

The reporters felt they had to say something, do something, about this house of horror. One pulled a flask and offered it to a mannequin obviously passed out in an upstairs bed. "Like New Year's eve in a morgue," said a morose soul.

Mr. Lee spoke affectionately in his ad of "blue wool suit, red bark cloth sports shirt, brown leather oxfords," and "green print rayon house coat, satin house slippers," and "baby's sheer batiste, brown and aqua, patent leather shoes." Hope they all turn out well, and that Sheppard's has a day which will cause the proprietor to shout, later, "That was a dinger!"

China And The Kremlin

As the new regime in Soviet Russia assumes responsibility, the eyes of the world are focused on the complex relationship between the Kremlin and the Communist leadership in China. "With Stalin gone, can Malenkov keep Red China in a war that must be as distasteful to the Communist leaders as it is costly to the Chinese people?" the Voice of America has been asking in a series of broadcasts beamed at China.

British Foreign Secretary Eden put it another way in an address to the UN General Assembly on February 11: "If we look a little further into the future, need we despair that there can never be a change of heart in China and North Korea?" But in the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda, Gen. Mao Tse-tung, chairman of the Central Government of China, on March 10 reaffirmed as "indestructible" the "front of friendship and solidarity" between the Russian and Chinese Communists.

The Soviet Union has given more or less active support to the Chinese Communist party since this was founded in 1921. The Chinese C.P. joined the Comintern two years later. A few months before his party gained complete power on the Chinese mainland, in 1949, Mao wrote, "We belong to the anti-imperialist front, headed by the USSR, and we can look for genuine friendly aid only from that front and not from the (Anglo-American) imperialist front."

But the formal alliance between Russia and Communist China dates only from their treaty of February 1950. This provided for a 30-year alliance. It supplanted—though in many respects it was founded upon—a Soviet-Chinese (Nationalist) treaty of 1945. On the surface, China got the better of the bargain.

The Chinese Changchun Railway was to be transferred to Red China by the end of 1952, not kept under the 30-year joint operation provided for in 1945. The Port Arthur naval base also was to be turned over to Red China in 1952. The Chinese Communists were to take over the administration of Dairen in 1950, but the "question of Dairen harbor" was to be given further consideration. Russia granted a $300 million credit to China.

Reports at the time hinted at secret annexes under which China handed over ports to the Soviets, gave Russia economic concessions, undertook to send Chinese laborers to Russia. Subsequent agreements in 1950 established two joint Sino-Soviet companies to exploit oil and metal resources in Sinkiang province and a similar company to develop airlines from Peking to Siberia and to Russian Central Asia.

Since the Korean War outbreak, the USSR has supplied an increasing proportion of China's imports—72 per cent at latest report—including the vast bulk of China's war goods. And an agreement reached in September 1952 presumably provided for increased Russian economic aid to Mao. But the price was high. China "asked" the Soviets to remain in Port Arthur, pending a peace settlement with Japan. No mention was made of Dairen.

On the third anniversary of the 1950 pact (February 13, 1953) Mao thanked Stalin for Russia's "truly selfless help" in building up the economy of Red China. Part of the "help" was identified on March 2 when Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vishinsky admitted to the UN General Assembly that Russia "sold and continues to sell armaments" to China in exchange for "strategic materials" under the 1950 pact.

Magsaysay For Prexy?

The Philippine Republic is having an election in November, and there is a fair chance that the choice of the people will prove to be Ramon Magsaysay. At the moment Magsaysay has been forced to resign as defense secretary because President Quirino withdrew his confidence and support, but this may help promote Magsaysay's candidacy.

Experienced politicians believe that a better way to get rid of a political rival is to kick him upstairs—instead of martyring him, giving him a job with prestige, but one which cannot be exploited for personal publicity.

Magsaysay is a man who gets things done. In 1951 Quirino ordered the Philippine army to maintain order and assure an honest election, for a change. Magsaysay did too good a job. The Liberal party, to which he and Quirino both belong, suffered a severe setback.

More recently, Magsaysay seems to have done an excellent job of subduing the Hukbalahap movement. The Huks, originally an indigenous resistance movement, had fallen under Communist control and were receiving supplies and advisers by submarine. Magsaysay failed to wipe them out, but he was the first man to make real headway against them.

The jobless Magsaysay is now being sought as presidential candidate by the opposition Nationalist party. Philippine voters might well feel that it's time for a change.

Zing-Zing, Zoom-Zoom

The American standard of living is the highest in the world, but there is a fly in the amber. American progress is remarkable, but there are bugs in it. This point was brought out recently by a bug specialist, Dr. Bailey B. Pepper, New Jersey Agriculture Department entomologist. And the bugs he was talking about were, or so its detractors allege, a specialty of the great commonwealth he represents.

Progress and a high standard of living, he told the New Jersey Mosquito Extermination Association, bring more mosquitoes in their wake. People scatter over the countryside. They eat more. They account for wider mosquito breeding areas, more garbage and domestic sewage. Thus the mosquitoes, too, are better fed and better housed. So presently, zing-zing, zoom-zoom, they turn upon their benefactors with hypodermic ingratitude.

A few more mosquito bites may be a small price to pay for progress and prosperity. Are there really fewer mosquitoes during periods of depression? There is some comfort in the reflection that better times, which encourage the prowling mosquito, have also provided DDT. Even today, Emerson's law of compensation sometimes works.

European Turkey Shoot

There is conjecture that recent Russian attacks on American and British planes were retaliatory moves for refusal of Allied authorities to return at once the MIG-15 which a Polish flier landed in Denmark several days ago.

The U. S. government is now perfectly justified in instituting a "shoot-on-sight" policy in Western Europe. It's either that or submit to a gradually intensified European turkey shoot.

Weakness Characterizes Multiple Sclerosis

Multiple Sclerosis is one of our most puzzling diseases; the cause is obscure and we have no treatment. However, an intensive research program is being carried on in an attempt to unscramble the puzzle. The need is urgent because, although the malady was rare in this country until 15 years ago, it is estimated that there are now 250,000 victims.

This disorder prefers the young and the middle aged and has no regard for sex, race, or stratum of society. Symptoms result from destruction of the fatty myelin sheaths that surround the nerves in different parts of the brain and spinal cord. This insulating material is replaced by scar tissue and there are many such areas (multiple) of nerve degeneration (sclerosis). No one has been able to discover what initiates the process but many divergent opinions along this line have been offered. Cyanide poisoning has been blamed by some; others believe that the sheaths are destroyed by a circulatory or an allergic disturbance. At any rate, treatment will be hampered until this phase is settled.

The course of multiple sclerosis is variable and in many instances symptoms appear, remain for several weeks, and then disappear. Several months or years may elapse before a return engagement occurs. The story of Peter, a middle aged executive, is typical. He noted weakness of the right leg after walking two blocks. Within a few weeks he recovered spontaneously but three years later the condition returned and this time the other extremity was involved.

Because of the diffuse nature of the process it is difficult to predict how the ailment will begin. Many encounter disorders of sensation varying from pain to numbness. The skin may feel hot or cold or as though some one were drawing a wisp of cotton or a cobweb over a given area. Others complain of a peculiar feeling in the eyes as though a curtain were being drawn gradually across the field of vision. Others are disturbed when they look at the furniture or floor because there seems to be a constant state of vibratory motion. Dizziness also exists and now and then the loss of equilibrium is so marked the individual is accused of drunkenness. Some of what the President does is unimportant, some important. In the unimportant category: Ike calls his Negro caddy, Willie Perret, "Cemetery," because a girl friend once carved him up in a tavern. . . . Ike still uses military terms. When about to take a picture of his Bobby Jones portrait, Ike said: "I've sent Nell to get Mamie to turn out for this formation, but she's tired of photographing." . . . Nell is Mrs. Robert Woodruff, whose husband is head of Coca Cola.

In the important category: Ike golfed with John Hay Whitney, husband of the first Mrs. Jimmie Roosevelt, and dominant figure in Freeport Sulphur. His company is trying to lease or buy from Ike's subordinate the huge U. S. government nickel plant in Cuba. . . . Also visiting Ike were Ellis Slater, Frankfurt Distillers; John Rudinger, Bankers Trust; Cliff Roberts, the investment banker; Bob Woodruff of Coca Cola; and William Robinson, executive vice president of the N. Y. Herald Tribune.

Battle For Oil
After ex-Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman finished testifying at the tidelands oil hearings recently, Texas' new senator, Price Daniel, came over to him and remarked:

"Oscar, I've never agreed with your position, but you've made a tough case for us. You're the most effective witness ever to testify against us."

Chapman had reminded Republicans that federal control of public lands was started by Republican President Teddy Roosevelt, not by the Democrats. He gently chided Nebraska's Senator, Butler for proposing to turn all public lands back to the states. He warned that if Mid-east oil is cut off, the U. S. Navy would desperately need submerged oil. Most telling of all, he reminded the oil companies that if the Holland or Daniel bills are passed, the oil companies won't be able to drill for about 10 years; because tidelands oil will be tied up in litigation.

Chapman also indicated that the Eisenhower administration had now shifted its position three times on tidelands oil.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Perhaps the most important speech on the subject of the safety of the United States that has been made in a decade or more got scant attention here last week. It was delivered by Senator Stuart Symington, Democrat, of Missouri and formerly secretary of the Air Force under President Truman.

Mr. Symington pulled no punches. What he said was a more severe indictment of the Truman administration than any Republican ever made. Likewise, it was an indictment of the American press as well as members of Congress of both parties who have failed to ferret out the facts behind a blanket of secrecy that has hidden the truth about the "defense mess" as effectively as if there had been a dictatorship in power in Washington.

"Truth," said Mr. Symington, as he spoke before the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin's forum, "is essential to the workings of a government such as ours, one that is based upon the consent of the governed."

There are sentences in the Symington speech that should bring about the broadest kind of congressional investigation. Yet, 10 days ago when Senator Taft, Republican leader, vaguely hinted that such a broad inquiry might possibly be desirable, he was immediately jumped upon by other members of Congress and by certain sections of the press because it was said some comfort might be given the enemy through the disclosure of "secret information"—the oldest of alibis to cover up incompetence and negligence.

Enemy Already Known

But what Senator Symington is talking about the enemy already knows. Only the American people are being deprived of the truth.

When the Missouri senator says the face of the world was changed "on the day the Soviet Union exploded the atomic bomb in September 1949," he not only takes issue with Mr. Truman—who says the Soviet Union hasn't got the bomb—but, without mentioning the former President, Mr. Symington went on to say:

"Eight months later, in May 1950, our government announced that hopes for peace were better than at any time since World War II and that therefore even less money would be required for defense the following year. That was May. In June, the Communists struck in Korea."

It was Mr. Truman's own announcement about the prospects of peace and it was Mr. Truman's recommendation that less money be spent for defense. General Eisenhower was called in at the time to give window dressing to the budget, but all he could do was to examine the items—not to pass judgment on the over-all money limitation already fixed by President Truman and the Budget Bureau.

But there is even more significance in the other parts of the speech of Senator Symington when he says:

"For a long time, both before and after the start of the Korean War, we followed the advice of those Pentagon people who glibly explained to the National Security Council why America could not afford rearmament. . . .

"Certain fiscal leaders, who should have been talking about fiscal affairs, suddenly became military experts, and advanced the cause of one type of jet engine over another."

Who were these "Pentagon people" and who were these "fiscal experts?" The country has a right to know. And why, and upon whose advice, did President Truman refuse early in 1950 to allow the spending of $500,000,000 which both houses of Congress had appropriated for additional air power? This correspondent was almost alone at that time in criticizing the President's action. Mr. Symington and the Air Force had to remain silent.

As for the "fiscal experts," the American people don't know that the military men whose lives are spent in studying weapons and strategy were forced to take a backseat when Mr. Truman's director of the budget entered the picture and said in effect what weapons should be bought. This was true in the Roosevelt administration, too; General MacArthur in the Philippines, before the Japanese attack in 1941, was clamoring for bomber and fighter planes, and so were Admiral Kimmel and General Short before Pearl Harbor. But the Budget Bureau had never approved the sums needed for such a build-up. A thorough inquiry as to how the Budget Bureau substituted its judgment for that of military men in the last 20 years would be revealing, indeed.

Diplomats Replace Military Men

"Certain scientists," continues Senator Symington, "who should have stuck to science desired to enter politics, so they wrote vague, misleading books on military strategy and became so-called experts on the organization of the Department of Defense."

Did the senator have in mind Dr. Vannevar Bush, scientist, whose book discussing future strategy said piloted airplanes and naval carriers would soon be outmoded and who, also, made several speeches recently in criticism of the organizational setup of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Defense Department?

The Missouri senator asks a series of penetrating questions — among them: "Why don't we use the atomic bomb on military targets in North Korea?"

Lots of people have asked that same question, but only evasive answers are given by military commanders who say "that's a decision to be made at other levels." It seems military men don't fight the wars today or call the signals—that's the function of the diplomats.

Now comes General Van Fleet to declare, as Mr. Symington phrases it, that "every month during the 22 months he had been in Korea, there had been a serious shortage of ammunition which at times became critical."

Senator Symington with characteristic candor and courage finally sums up the situation thus: "Rather than coming up with the truth to the people, we follow the tragic steps of certain World War II allies by again attempting to purchase a nervous neutrality."

When will Congress authorize a real investigation of what has been going on in the Pentagon, of what has been going on in the Budget Bureau, and what has been going on in the State Department since 1945, and give the American people the facts which have thus far been suppressed but which are known to the Communists and have already given them the greatest aid and comfort? A Democrat now has challenged the entire Republican party to show some courage and investigate the truth and point the finger of blame where it belongs.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (INS) — Too busy folks who read this line of reach of Las Vegas won't be able to take part in Sheppard's great atomic bomb sale.

Maybe you missed the full-page ad in the Las Vegas Review-Journal, one of the finer organs of the west. It went:

"Sheppard's great atomic bomb sale!"

"Starts the minute the 'St. Pat.' atomic bomb is exploded. (Regardless of the time of day or night) Come immediately to our store. In conjunction with the firing of the famous 'St. Pat.' atomic bomb which will be heard and seen over most of the continent, Sheppard's offers still greater values in furniture, carpeting and electric appliances!"

Sorry I had to miss it. It must have been a dinger. Got tied up at Yucca, where I kept thinking about what happened to the contributions of the J. C. Penney Company and of Darling and Company, of Bronson, Mich. The latter are just about the biggest makers of department store window dummies in the world. The former dressed them and produced in Hillman R. Lee, manager of the Las Vegas store, a man with keen rapport with the atomic times. To wit:

"One of the purposes of Operation St. Pat is to determine the effects of an atomic explosion on various fabrics and materials used in today's wearing apparel. On the 50 mannequins pictured below we have men's, women's and children's clothing, consisting of all types of fabrics and materials, including wools, rayons, nylons, cottons, denims, crepes, flannels and many others."

"The outcome of this test is unpredictable, but the results of the evaluation may be a powerful factor in deciding fashion trends in years to come."

Bravely said, Mr. L., and you are one with merchandising history. When Mr. L. mentioned "below" he wasn't kidding. He printed 50 shots of mannequins of all ages and sexes he dressed for the sole purpose of becoming children, women and men of extinction.

I saw some of Mr. Lee's and Mrs. Darling's handiwork Sunday, about 48 hours before a lot of same was scheduled to be reduced to radioactive ash and sucked up into the shape of a mushroom, and, believe me, it was one of the eeriest experiences of my life.

There are elements of foolishness about walking into the dining room of a pleasant suburban-type home ($20,000 job, by the way) and coming upon four mannequins of the rival sexes engaged in what appears to be lively conversation that escapes mortal ears.

All of them looked so much healthier than the reporters and civil defense people who stood around them, shyly. Someone finally broke the ice by asking: "Holy wow, what kind of cocktails did that dame serve before dinner?"

Then there were the children, romping stiffly in plastic loveliness (filled with buckshot so that they would weigh as much as regular un-romping, non-lovely children). Broke a lot of our hearts to realize that the shadow of that 300-foot tower, and its deceptively ridiculous bomb-store on top, fell across them — as the threat of these ghastly things might fall across all of our children.

The reporters felt they had to say something, do something, about this house of horror. One pulled a flask and offered it to a mannequin obviously passed out in an upstairs bed. "Like New Year's eve in a morgue," said a morose soul.

Mr. Lee spoke affectionately in his ad of "blue wool suit, red bark cloth sports shirt, brown leather oxfords," and "green print rayon house coat, satin house slippers," and "baby's shear batiste, brown and aqua, patent leather shoes." Hope they all turn out well, and that Sheppard has a day which will cause the proprietor to shout, later, "That was a dinger!"

Vandals Using BB Guns Damage Grave Markers

FROSTBURG — The practice of firing BB rifles by boys who trespass on the property of the Frostburg Memorial Park resulted last week in damage to small monuments on the Rees Bevan lot, and on the Hanna lot. Both monuments were surmounted by marble doves which the boys used as targets.

Similar incidents were reported during the Christmas holidays when flowers in glass containers were placed on various graves.

Another favorite target for boys who trespass on the cemetery property is the Farnady vault, a memorial to two veterans of World War I.

The heavy glass doors of the vault and the rear ventilator show the marks of air rifle shots, and the owners of the vault have been forced on several occasions to replace the glass.

Since a group of local citizens assumed control of the property three years ago every effort has been made to discourage the boys from trespassing on the property, and the cooperation of parents has been asked.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 16 (INS)—A natural I call it—Vina Delmar's best seller, "About Mrs. Leslie," for Shirley Booth, who could be this year's Mrs. Oscar, herself.

Danny Mann, who directed Shirley in "Come Back Little Sheba" on stage and screen, arrived to talk with Hal Wallis. He'll also consult with Ketti Frings who'll write the screen play.

It may surprise movie fans who know Shirley only from "Sheba" to hear that she will sing in the "Leslie" opus. There isn't anything in the "thitter" Shirley can't do from comedy to dramma.

There had been talk that Shirley would do her current Broadway hit "Time of the Cuckoo" as her next movie. But when I visited her backstage she said she thought it better suited to the stage than the screen—and I agree.

This is a surprise if I ever heard one: Young Donald O'Connor, who is hotter than a mid August day, has decided against doing "No Business Like Show Business" with Ethel Merman. Reason is Don has a hankering to produce and direct.

That job he'll get with Sam Katzman at Columbia when he'll co-direct and be given a percentage of a musical (not yet named) now being planned.

He'll dance in "White Christmas" with Vera Ellen because he is committed to that one, but he wants to learn the technical end of the business. At his age and with his talent, he could wait.

Our talented Dusty (Mrs. Jean) Negulesco will study painting in Paris and also have an exhibition of her work. Her director-husband goes to Rome, to direct "Coins in the Fountain" starring Barbara Stanwyck and Clifton Webb.

While he's there, Dusty goes to Paris. "I may even go on ahead," she said. "I have always wanted to study and Jean has made it possible for me to have this opportunity."

This is the first time, I had heard that Clifton and Barbara were going to Italy. Goodness me, the more I think of the number of people traveling abroad the lonelier I think it's going to be in Hollywood this summer.

Eddie Grainger is just as excited about Steve McNally in "Split Second" as are the rest of us who've seen the movie. And Eddie isn't letting Steve get away.

He's putting him into "Arizona Outpost" in which Steve will co-star with that other hot young man, Dale Robertson.

Comparisons are odious, (pardon the cliché), but McNally registers a real Clark Gable wallop in "Split Second" as I believe I mentioned before.

Snapshots of Hollywood collect at random:

Wanda Hendrix, once a blonde, has now turned carrot top—and very becoming, too.

Virginia Grey at the Encore with Dr. Henry Jaffee. Rumor has it that this is a serious romance. I hope so—Virginia is entitled to some happiness.

It's estimated that "Quo Vadis" will gross twenty million dollars at the end of its first world showing.

Former president of the Academy, Conrad Nagel, will M.C. the cut-in from New York on TV for the academy.

'Tis rumored that Tom Ewell, who is so wonderful in "Seven Year Itch," will play the part he created in the movies. But this is not verified.

Joanne Gilbert is enjoying her interlude from work by indulging in her hobby—baking fudge cookies.

Lex Barker apparently changed his mind about the divorce when he was in Acapulco. However, he's planning to buy into a new hotel there.

Monica Lewis, so my scouts say from New York, is a big hit at the Paramount Theatre. She went straight there from the Plaza.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Spring School Registration To Begin Soon

School principals will register children next week at public schools in preparation for their entrance into elementary schools next September, according to Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany county schools.

The spring registration will be held Thursday, March 26, and Friday, March 27, between 3:30 and 5 p. m. These hours were selected so that there will be no inconvenience resulting from classes being in session.

Principals at elementary schools are familiar with the procedure to be followed, but parents are asked to observe the following regulation:

Children whose sixth birthdays fall on December 31, 1953, or earlier are eligible for enrollment. Principals and teachers have been asked to inform parents that no exceptions to this regulation will be allowed. Children will be registered at the school nearest their home.

Principals have been asked to make a complete canvass of their districts to make certain there is a 100 per cent enrollment of eligible children.

An effort is made on registration days to welcome the parents and children in warm and courteous manner, as this creates a desirable setting for the relationship between the home and school, Webster pointed out.

In order to assure 100 per cent enrollment, which is advantageous in planning for next year, Webster suggests that each principal secure from census cards at the Board of Education office the names and addresses of all potential first graders. A notice by card to the parents of eligible children should then be sent, Webster said.

State's Attorney John S. Hollyday said an autopsy report on 36-year-old Miss Lillian Armstrong indicated that her death last Jan. 10 was due to either suffocation or alcoholism.

A 17-year-old girl, "not mentally competent to testify," told authorities she saw the woman smothered to death with a pillow.

The man named by the girl was picked up and questioned. He said he stabbed the woman to death but did not smother her.

There was no evidence whatever of stab wounds on her body, according to the medical examiner.

And lie detector tests upheld the man's contention that he did not smother the woman. There was no other evidence to support the girl's story, so Hollyday released the accused man.

Cain said today the state makes such a small amount on Patuxent River Bridge tolls at Benedict it will take steps to abolish the charge.

The roads commission chairman said Governor McKeldin and Joseph D. Buscher, special assistant attorney general, will confer on the matter soon.

McCain noted tolls from the bridge are only a little more than the cost of collecting them.

He said one of the problems was protection of private investors whose bond purchases financed construction of the span. This might be solved, McCain added, by setting up a trust of about $2,000,000 to pay off the bonds as they become due.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 16 (INS).—A natural I call it—Vina Delmar's best seller, "About Mrs. Leslie," for Shirley Booth, who could be this year's Mrs. Oscar, herself.

Danny Mann, who directed Shirley in "Come Back Little Sheba" on stage and screen, arrived to talk with Hal Wallis. He'll also consult with Ketti Frings who'll write the screen play.

It may surprise movie fans who know Shirley only from "Sheba" to hear that she will sing in the "Leslie" opus. There isn't anything in "Thither" Shirley can't do from comedy to dramma.

There had been talk that Shirley would do her current Broadway hit "Time of the Cuckoo" as her next movie. But when I visited her backstage she said she thought it better suited to the stage than the screen—and I agree.

This is a surprise if I ever heard one: Young Donald O'Connor, who is hotter than a mid August day, has decided against doing "No Business Like Show Business" with Ethel Merman. Reason is Don has a hankering to produce and direct.

That job he'll get with Sam Katzman at Columbia when he'll co-direct and be given a percentage of a musical (not yet named) now being planned.

He'll dance in "White Christmas" with Vera Ellen because he is committed to that one, but he wants to learn the technical end of the business. At his age and with his talent, he could wait.

Our talented Dusty (Mrs. Jean) Negulesco will study painting in Paris and also have an exhibition of her work. Her director-husband goes to Rome, to direct "Coins in the Fountain" starring Barbara Stanwyck and Clifton Webb.

While he's there, Dusty goes to Paris. "I may even go ahead," she said, "I have always wanted to study and Jean has made it possible for me to have this opportunity."

This is the first time, I had heard that Clifton and Barbara were going to Italy. Goodness me, the more I think of the number of people traveling abroad the lonelier I think it's going to be in Hollywood this summer.

Eddie Grainger is just as excited about Steve McNally in "Split Second" as are the rest of us who've seen the movie. And Eddie isn't letting Steve get away.

He's putting him into "Arizona Outpost" in which Steve will co-star with that other hot young man, Dale Robertson.

Comparisons are odious, (pardon the cliché), but McNally registers a real Clark Gable wallop in "Split Second" as I believe I mentioned before.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Wanda Hendrix, once a blonde, has now turned carrot top—and very becoming, too.

Virginia Grey at the Encore with Dr. Henry Jaffee. Rumor has it that this is a serious romance. I hope so—Virginia is entitled to some happiness.

It's estimated that "Quo Vadis" will gross twenty million dollars at the end of its first world showing.

Spring School Registration To Begin Soon

School principals will register children next week at public schools in preparation for their entrance into elementary schools next September, according to Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany county schools.

The spring registration will be held Thursday, March 26, and Friday, March 27, between 3:30 and 5 p. m. These hours were selected so that there will be no inconvenience resulting from classes being in session.

Principals at elementary schools are familiar with the procedure to be followed, but parents are asked to observe the following regulations:

Children whose sixth birthdays fall on December 31, 1953, or earlier are eligible for enrollment. Principals and teachers have been asked to inform parents that no exceptions to this regulation will be allowed. Children will be registered at the school nearest their home.

Principals have been asked to make a complete canvass of their districts to make certain there is a 100 per cent enrollment of eligible children.

An effort is made on registration days to welcome the parents and children in warm and courteous manner, as this creates a desirable setting for the relationship between the home and school, Webster pointed out.

In order to assure 100 per cent enrollment, which is advantageous in planning for next year, Webster suggests that each principal secure from census cards at the Board of Education office the names and addresses of all potential first graders. A notice by card to the parents of eligible children should then be sent, Webster said.

Man Who "Confessed" To Murder Released

HAGERSTOWN, March 16 (AP)—A man who "confessed" to a murder has been released by Hagerstown authorities who tab the case "the most fantastic murder investigation we ever had."

State's Attorney John S. Holleyday said an autopsy report on 36-year-old Miss Lillian Armstrong indicated that her death last Jan. 10 was due to either suffocation or alcoholism.

A 17-year-old girl, "not mentally competent to testify," told authorities she saw the woman smothered to death with a pillow.

The man named by the girl was picked up and questioned. He said he stabbed the woman to death but did not smother her.

There was no evidence whatever of stab wounds on her body, according to the medical examiner.

And lie detector tests upheld the man's contention that he did not smother the woman. There was no other evidence to support the girl's story, so Holleyday released the accused man.

Local Sub-District Mission Of Methodist Churches Ends

The combined attendance at the preaching services during the United Evangelistic Mission of the Cumberland Sub-District of the Methodist Church totaled 19,304 persons, according to a report submitted Sunday at the closing session by Rev. Adam E. Grim, pastor of Grace Church.

A capacity audience attended the session Sunday afternoon at Centre Street Church. The report offered by Rev. Mr. Grim, who was statistician for the mission, stated 976 members participated in the visitation program and that 837 commitments resulted from the visitations. Of this number, the report continued, 439 were confessions of faith and 398 were transferred from other churches. The total offerings, exclusive of the mass meetings, amounted to $1,992.19, the report concluded.

The concluding sermon was by Rev. Dr. William A. Keese, pastor of Grace Church, Baltimore, who spoke on "The Lordship of Christ."

Others participating, besides Rev. Mr. Grim, were Rev. Dr. Harry C. Marsh, district superintendent; Rev. Howard Amoss, host pastor, and Rev. Bayley Jones, pastor of First Church, Frostburg, who presided at the meeting.

Music for the meeting was by a young peoples choir under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Lewis and by a mixed quartet from Centre Street Church.

Over 400 young persons attended a meeting Saturday night at the same church. The speaker was Joseph C. Humphrey, dean of Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, W. Va.

County Supports 12-Year Plan For Road Funds

Lemmert Endorses State Group's Step

William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, said last night that he is wholeheartedly in favor of yesterday's action of the State Association of County Commissioners in advocating a 12-year road improvement for the counties.

Meeting in Annapolis, the association passed a resolution advocating a program similar to the proposed $568-million project which has been outlined for the state.

Lemmert said that he did not attend the meeting but the county's representatives at the session were instructed to support the plan. Allegany County was represented by Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the commissioners, and J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor.

The commissioner explained that Allegany County has about 600 miles of roads in its system and about 350 are dirt roads. Only about 250 are surfaced.

None of the more than 40 members representing 14 counties voted against the resolution, but Edward Sparks of Caroline County told the press afterwards he was against the plan.

"I'm against the present program for the whole state," Sparks said, "because 12 years is too long a period to consider. I think four years would be long enough."

The resolution calls for each county to receive $450 a year for each mile of county road during the entire 12-year period. The SRC's proposed program would grant the counties about $200 a year.

The program would be financed by the counties' share of the one cent gas tax increase and the increase in the motor vehicle tax as set up in the bill before the Legislature.

U. Grant Hooper, president of the Frederick County commissioners, complained that his county still has about 400 to 500 miles of mud roads. "We're in the mud," he said, "and we want to get out."

Roger Willard, Frederick County roads engineer, told the group the State Roads Commission has agreed to issue one set of bonds covering both the state and the county programs if the amendment to the bill was adopted.

In addition to turning over the gas tax increase, the resolution asks that participating counties pledge a portion of their present gas tax revenue as additional security for bond purposes.

"This is merely to strengthen the bond sale," Hooper said, "even if something happened and we had to pay off the bonds in an emergency, we would only be paying for what we already got in improved roads."

The resolution also asks that the Roads Commission confer with the various county commissioners prior to carrying out the state program on the secondary system of state roads and obtain recommendations on the needs of the secondary system.

As a group, the association contended it would be impossible to finance a county road program unless the 12-year plan was adopted because "the revenue of the entire 12-year period is needed to finance the necessary bond issue."

Marvin L. Anderson, attorney for the association, outlined a similar plan at a meeting of the Senate Finance Committee last week. At that time the group asked for $500 per mile for the 13,382 miles of roads outside the state system.

Gasoline Retailers Will Meet Tonight

The Allegany County Gasoline Retailers Association will meet tonight at 7:30 p. m. in the Baltimore Pike Fire Hall, according to Ralph B. Gehauf, temporary secretary.

The association now represents about 60 of the some 125 gas dealers of the county and plans are under way to increase the membership further.

An attorney will be present at tonight's meeting to advise the group.

A committee named to investigate sign displays will report. Officials said most of the signs have been taken down.

Permanent officers will be named when the membership goal is reached, officials said.

Model Legislature Groups To Meet

Allgany county delegates to the three-day Model Legislature in Annapolis, beginning April 23, will hold a bill drafting session Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Each of the 30 representatives from Allegany, Fort Hill, Bruce and Beall High schools will submit proposals for discussion. The agenda will include a request for an annual motor vehicle inspection, re-examination of drivers and the licensing of psychiatrists in Maryland.

Leroy Hare, a senior at Fort Hill is the only county candidate to be elected to office. He will be clerk of the Senate.

His motion was passed unanimously by the Mayor and Council. Mrs. Roeder also took exception to Berry's description of the problem as "simple." She said, "It's a big problem."

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson told Berry that financing the proposal is a "matter of drawing funds, more than paying out. There's an economic factor there of which Mr. Berry doesn't speak."

Mayor Eves said council is "willing to look for a way" so that employees would not have to go to the legislature and "discredit our hope for home rule."

"We prefer to do it that way," he added.

Mrs. Roeder questioned Finan whether it is necessary to take bills to Annapolis since the city has home rule. Finan replied the council can grant remedies any time. The legislature, he explained, sets up minimum requirements and the Mayor and Council can up those if it desires.

Long said if anything can be done to help, well and good, but all he was asking is a study of finances to see if the problem can be solved. He said the tax rate is $1.28 now. The census shows a decrease in population and if taxes are raised, he fears a further decrease.

"There are so many other things to consider," Long said, adding that the city once had a surplus of $250,000 to work on, but this year had only $88,000 and that's almost gone.

"It's not that I don't want to go along," he continued. "I know the

Ministerial Association Donates Books To Library

The Cumberland Ministerial Association yesterday presented 40 books and a subscription to a religious publication to the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, accepted the volumes for the library at a meeting of the association yesterday morning at Central YMCA.

Four volumes of the 12-volume Interpreter's Bible were included in those presented to the library, and the association plans to donate the other eight as soon as they are published.

Two books of local interest also were presented. They are Catherine Marshall's "A Man Called Peter," the story of her noted husband, Dr. Peter Marshall, chaplain of the U.S. Senate before his death, and "Monsoon Quarter," a first novel by Marion Lowndes, a niece by marriage of the late Tasker G. Lowndes of Cumberland.

Peter Marshall's own book, "Mr. Jones, Meet the Master," also was donated. Catherine Marshall, formerly of Keyser, W. Va., is the daughter of Rev. John A. Wood, pastor of First Presbyterian Church there from 1926 to 1942.

Marion Lowndes' book, her first novel, is the story of her life on a

Council met with Berry after the regular session for a deeper review of his requests. Mayor Eves said later no decision was reached.

A subscription to The Christian Century also was presented to the library yesterday.

In accepting the gifts, Miss Walsh traced the history of the local library from its beginning in 1699. That was the year in which Thomas Bray (1656-1729), an Anglican clergyman, started small collections of books in 30 Maryland communities, including Cumberland.

By March 1924 the library had 1,650 volumes. Now it has 51,000. While at first the books were mostly theological works, the content has expanded to include general books and magazines, religious, scientific and trade books.

The Ministerial Association makes frequent book donations to the library as one of its educational projects.

Members of the board of the library are Wilbur V. Wilson, chairman; James Alfred Avirett, Mrs. Charles L. Kopp, Julius Schindler, John J. Tipton, Oliver H. Bruce Jr., and Owen E. Hitchins.

County Supports 12-Year Plan For Road Funds

Lemmert Endorses State Group's Step

William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, said last night that he is wholeheartedly in favor of yesterday's action of the State Association of County Commissioners in advocating a 12-year road improvement for the counties.

Meeting in Annapolis, the association passed a resolution advocating a program similar to the proposed $568-million project which has been outlined for the state. Lemmert said that he did not attend the meeting but the county's representatives at the session were instructed to support the plan. Allegany County was represented by Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the commissioners, and J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor.

The commissioner explained that Allegany County has about 600 miles of roads in its system and about 350 are dirt roads. Only about 250 are surfaced.

None of the more than 40 members representing 14 counties voted against the resolution, but Edward Sparks of Caroline County told the press afterwards he was against the plan.

"I'm against the present program for the whole state," Sparks said, "because 12 years is too long a period to consider. I think four years would be long enough."

The resolution calls for each county to receive $450 a year for each mile of county road during the entire 12-year period. The SRC's proposed program would grant the counties about $200 a year.

The program would be financed by the counties' share of the one cent gas tax increase and the increase in the motor vehicle tax as set up in the bill before the Legislature.

U. Grant Hooper, president of the Frederick County commissioners, complained that his county still has about 400 to 500 miles of mud roads. "We're in the mud," he said, "and we want to get out."

Roger Willard, Frederick County roads engineer, told the group the State Roads Commission has agreed to issue one set of bonds covering both the state and the county programs if the amendment to the bill was adopted.

In addition to turning over the gas tax increase, the resolution asks that participating counties pledge a portion of their present gas tax revenue as additional security for bond purposes.

"This is merely to strengthen the bond sale," Hooper said, "even if something happened and we had to pay off the bonds in an emergency, we would only be paying for what we already got in improved roads."

The resolution also asks that the Roads Commission confer with the various county commissioners prior to carrying out the state program on the secondary system of state roads and obtain recommendations on the needs of the secondary system.

As a group, the association contended it would be impossible to finance a county road program unless the 12-year plan was adopted because "the revenue of the entire 12-year period is needed to finance the necessary bond issue."

Marvin I. Anderson, attorney for the association, outlined a similar plan at a meeting of the Senate Finance Committee last week. At that time the group asked for $500 per mile for the 13,382 miles of roads outside the state system.

Gasoline Retailers Will Meet Tonight

The Allegany County Gasoline Retailers Association will meet tonight at 7:30 p. m. in the Baltimore Pike Fire Hall, according to Ralph B. Gehauf, temporary secretary.

The association now represents about 60 of the some 125 gas dealers of the county and plans are under way to increase the membership further.

An attorney will be present at tonight's meeting to advise the group.

A committee named to investigate sign displays will report. Officials said most of the signs have been taken down.

Permanent officers will be named when the membership goal is reached, officials said.

Model Legislature Groups To Meet

Allegany county delegates to the three-day Model Legislature in Annapolis, beginning April 23, will hold a bill drafting session Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Each of the 30 representatives from Allegany, Fort Hill, Bruce and Beall High schools will submit proposals for discussion. The agenda will include a request for an annual motor vehicle inspection, re-examination of drivers and the licensing of psychiatrists in Maryland.

Leroy Hare, a senior at Fort Hill is the only county candidate to be elected to office. He will be clerk of the Senate.

Former Resident Dies In Baltimore Automobile Crash

Thurman Hudson, about 40, was killed at 6:20 a. m. yesterday when his automobile crashed into the rear of a tractor-trailer truck on the Glen Burnie Road, Baltimore.

Hudson, a native of Cumberland, moved to the Baltimore area about 22 years ago. He is survived by his widow, Ethel B. Hudson, Baltimore, two small sons, a brother, Clyde, and his mother, Mrs. Emma Loar Hudson, all of Baltimore.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Donora Funeral Home in Baltimore at 2 p. m. Thursday. Burial will be in a Baltimore cemetery.

Competitive Sports Teach Loyalty To School, Country Harry A. Stuhldreher Says

LaSalle's Athletes Honored At Dinner Of Mothers' Club

Competitive sports teach loyalty to school and loyalty to our country and no traitors come from the ranks of schoolboy athletes, Harry A. Stuhldreher, former Notre Dame grid star and college grid midget, told his audience of 125 persons who assembled last night at St. Patrick's Social Center to honor LaSalle High School football, basketball and baseball players at the annual awards dinner sponsored by the Mothers' Club of LaSalle.

The one-time backfield ace and member of Notre Dame's famed "Four Horsemen" of the gridiron when Knute Rockne coached the "Fighting Irish," said he had the greatest respect for any group of adults which encourages team sports among boys and girls.

Stuhldreher, who served as head coach at Villanova and was also head coach and director of athletics at the University of Wisconsin, is now public relations manager for the United States Steel Company and makes his home in Pittsburgh with his family.

The speaker stated that many people have asked him how he feels since he got out of sports, which included a 25-year coaching career. "I haven't gotten out of sports," he declared. "I tried but I couldn't."

When Notre Dame Loses

When Pitt defeated Notre Dame in football last year, Stuhldreher said he was asked time and again: "What happened to your team?"

"When Notre Dame loses it's my team. When Notre Dame wins it's everybody's team."

Speaking of his children he stated that he thought it proper to allow them to develop according to their own abilities and preferences. For instance, one son plays hockey and football; another tennis, while the youngest goes in for ballet dancing.

Stuhldreher, who was one of Notre Dame's greatest football players, was introduced by Joseph Stakem, who acted as toastmaster.

Brother Daniel, principal, presented letters to members of the staff of The Torch, LaSalle's student publication.

Kiner Hopes To Join Bucs On Thursday

Will Come To Terms To End Long Holdout

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., March 16 (AP)—Homerun Slugger Ralph Kiner said today he hopes to join the Pittsburgh Pirates in Havana no later than Thursday afternoon.

The holdout slugger said that he had not heard from General Manager Branch Rickey but assumed that he had made his peace with the Pirates' front office. Kiner announced last night that he was coming to terms with Rickey and would end his long holdout.

In his statement last night Kiner said the terms he has agreed to accept are almost exactly those he agreed on at a meeting in Hollywood with Rickey last Feb. 13. This arrangement was for Kiner to receive something less than $76,000 for 1953. He agreed to a cut of this amount from the reported $90,000 he got last year.

The Pirate slugger, who batted only 244 last year but still tied with Hank Sauer of the Chicago Cubs for the home run championship with 37, said in a wire to Kiner: "I accept the terms of your March 14 telegram and will report as soon as transportation is available. I am anxious to get to spring training and I am in good condition. I hope that I can in some way help the team get into the first division, and I hope to be with Pittsburgh the rest of my baseball career."

In Rickey's telegram Saturday he ordered his star outfielder to report to training camp or face the possibility of new negotiations.

Vote Reported 5 To 2 Against Shifting Club

Yankees, A's, Nats Lead Fight Against Franchise Transfer

By JOE REICHLER

TAMPA, Fla., March 16 (AP)—The American League flatly refused today to permit Bill Veeck to transfer his St. Louis Browns franchise to Baltimore—an action that came as a huge surprise after a week of intense baseball maneuvering.

A highly placed source said the vote was 5 to 2 against the shift, with only the Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox siding with Veeck.

Three clubs were reported to have led the fight against the transfer—the New York Yankees, the Philadelphia Athletics, and the Washington Senators. Washington is only 40 miles from Baltimore and a major league club in the Maryland city would undoubtedly draw heavily on fans of the entire area. Previously, however, Senator officials expressed approval of the shift.

Representatives of the eight American League cities met with President Will Harridge for more than five hours.

Shift Deemed Inadvisable

In the end, the league announced it was inadvisable to permit the shift because of the short period before the baseball season opens in mid-April. It was thought St. Louis fans would give more support to the Browns this year.

The National League has called a special meeting for Wednesday in St. Petersburg to discuss a proposal of Lou Perini of Boston to move his Braves to Milwaukee.

Basketball rivalry was keen in those days among teams from the Frostburg and Cumberland YMCA, Meyersdale, Lonaconing, Westernport and Mt. Savage.

Vote Reported

What action the National League will take in view of the American League's action is problematical.

Unanimous consent is required in the National League to make a franchise shift. Six of the eight American League cities could vote a change in that circuit.

Ints Call Off Meeting

The International League, of which Baltimore is a member, had scheduled a meeting here tomorrow at 1 p.m., EST., but when word of the Browns' rejection was made known it was called off. Had the Browns moved to Baltimore, it would have been necessary to find a city for the Baltimore Orioles' International League franchise.

Both the St. Louis Browns and the Boston Braves lost money heavily last year. Transfer of major league baseball clubs has often been discussed but not in a half century has an actual move come so close to being effected. Oddly enough Baltimore was involved in the last transfer. The old Baltimore Orioles gave up their franchise in 1903 to the New York Yankees.

When the decision was announced, this statement was handed out by a league spokesman: "The American League clubs have decided it is not advisable to transfer the St. Louis club for the 1953 season."

"The league decided that the numerous problems involved preclude transfer of the franchise by reason of the short period of time before the opening of the season. Expect Better Attendance

"In view of improved attendance of the Browns in 1952 and the urgent requests from numerous St. Louis fans for retention of the club in St. Louis, the league looks forward to increased support of the St. Louis Browns."

Veeck, who said he had lost $400,000 on the Browns last year, disclosed after hearing of the league's decision that he had considered shifting the Browns since last summer.

Surrounded by newsmen in a steaming hot room, he said: "I first got the idea of shifting the club last July. I did what I thought was economically sound for my partners and myself.

Thinks Move Wise One

"I still think my intended move was a wise one. And I still think it is a wise move for Boston to shift to Milwaukee. It is inevitable that within a few years the only two-team cities will be Chicago and New York. I don't see how other cities can support two clubs."

Asked whether he had abandoned the idea of moving to Baltimore, Veeck said:

"I haven't abandoned anything. I have been abandoned."

He said there was no discussion with the other American League officials about 1954.

Asked if the American League had suggested that he sell the Browns, Veeck said "I don't think that it would make them real unhappy if I sold."

"I'm not going to sell the club now. But, I may change my mind two days from now. I've been known to change my mind on two days' notice."

Warren Giles, president of the National League, said "The vote in the American League will have no bearing on the National League. They are two separate and distinct things."

Frank Shaughnessy, president of

GRIN AND BEAR IT

By Lichty

"Complaints about taxes, prices and Korea MUST be coming from Communists! ... right thinking people can separate campaign promises from reality!"

Slim skirts demand slim, trim leg lines! This "strap" exercise produces lovely contours.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

With its drastically slimmed lines, the new tubular skirt emphasizes the legline, and never to the advantage of either a weighty or curvaceous calf. If you wish to wear the fashion successfully, near-perfect contours must be yours.

Should you find yourself in need of more or less contour in the calf area, you can accomplish your goal with exercise. And in jig time! To Contour Legs

What makes the exercise especially productive of results is the use of a leather strap (two sturdy belts buckled together will do nicely). Acting as an exercise partner, this strap doubles the effectiveness of your workout — and that halves the time it takes to get the results you are after!

Here's the routine: With strap in hand, lie on your back on the floor. Bend your right knee and rest the foot firmly on the floor. Grasp the strap near the ends, place it under your right instep and pull your leg six inches off the floor. Hold this pull throughout the routine. Next, stretch your ankle so your foot points toward you — then stretch it in the other direction, pointing away from you. Ten workouts with each foot is a good starter; twenty-five per day is your aim.

Adjusted To Need

Now for special instructions: If you want to increase your calf, work very slowly and with maximum stretch. Concentrate especially hard on the backward stretch, trying to point your big toe to your nose. Hold this flex for a count of ten. But if reduction is your goal, perform briskly in both directions.

And here's a word of warning! You can expect to be stiff for several days after your first workout. What a discomforting thought! But you can also expect to see definite results in just several weeks. What a comforting thought — and one that will mean so much to you in your new spring and summer clothes!

"FIGURED FOR YOU!"

Specially prepared by figure and fashion experts EXCLUSIVELY for readers of this column, FIGURED FOR YOU, gives detailed instructions and illustrates how to select foundation garments that provide comeliness, control and healthful comfort for your individual type of figure. Send the in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope to SECRETS OF CHARM in care of this newspaper for FIGURED FOR YOU.

Reuter Calls Red Air Attacks Part Of Plan

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP)—Mayor Ernest Reuter of West Berlin said today that Red attacks on British and American planes in Europe are not the work of individual airmen, but are part of a plan.

Slim skirts demand slim, trim leg lines! This "strap" exercise produces lovely contours.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

With its drastically slimmed lines, the new tubular skirt emphasizes the legline, and never to the advantage of either a weighty or curvaceous calf. If you wish to wear the fashion successfully, near-perfect contours must be yours.

Should you find yourself in need of more or less contour in the calf area, you can accomplish your goal with exercise. And in jig time!

To Contour Legs
What makes the exercise especially productive of results is the use of a leather strap (two sturdy belts buckled together will do nicely). Acting as an exercise partner, this strap doubles the effectiveness of your workout — and that halves the time it takes to get the results you are after!

Here's the routine: With strap in hand, lie on your back on the floor. Bend your right knee and rest the foot firmly on the floor. Grasp the strap near the ends, place it under your right instep and pull your leg six inches off the floor. Hold this pull throughout the routine. Next, stretch your

Adjusted To Need

Now for special instructions: If you want to increase your calf, work very slowly and with maximum stretch. Concentrate especially hard on the backward stretch, trying to point your big toe to your nose. Hold this flex for a count of ten. But if reduction is your goal, perform briskly in both directions.

And here's a word of warning! You can expect to be stiff for several days after your first workout. What a discomforting thought! But you can also expect to see definite results in just several weeks. What a comforting thought—and one that will mean so much to you in your new spring and summer clothes!

In Memoriam

In memory of Mother Harriett Matthews who died March 17, 1952. God saw the road was getting rough. The hills were hard to climb. He gently closed her loving eyes and whispered "Peace be thine." Her weary hours, her days of pain, Her tears and sorrows, her heartache, Her ever patient, worn-out frame Has found sweet rest at last. Lovingly remembered by A. W. FLOWERS and LINA YATES

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, William Karpis, who passed away March 17th, 1949. What would I give to clasp his hand. His happy face to see. To hear his voice and see him smile. That meant so much to me. LOVING WIFE AND CHILDREN

In memory of Mrs. S. Wolford, who died March 16, 1952. Mother, you cradled us in love. You taught us at your knee. You watched us as we tried our wings. Tenderly set us free. From childhood bonds. . . and now we come. To give what you have given: Our love, our prayers, to gently bear Your spirit to its heaven. The Children

In Memoriam

In memory of Mother Harriet Matthews who died March 17, 1953. God saw the road was getting rough. The hills were hard to climb. Her gentle closed her loving eyes and whispered "Peace be thine." Her weary hours, her days of pain, Her weary nights are past. Her ever patient, worn-out frame Has found sweet rest at last. Sadly missed by: A. W. FLOWERS and LINA YATES

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, William Karmes, who passed away March 17th, 1949. What would I give to clasp his hand. His happy face to see. To hear his voice and see him smile. That meant so much to me. LOVING WIFE AND CHILDREN

In memory of Mrs. S. S. Wolford, who died March 16, 1953. Mother, you cradled us in love. You taught us as we grew. You watched us as we tried our wings. Tenderly set us free. From childhood bonds, and now we come. To give what you have given: Our love, our prayers, to gently bear Your spirit to its heaven. The Children

Cumberland May Get Big Aluminum Forging Plant

Sen. Butler Says City Is Ideal Alternate Site

Alcoa Hits 'Snafu' In Cuyahoga Heights

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP) — Sen. Butler (R-Md) today recommended Cumberland, Md., as an alternate site for a proposed new plant of the Aluminum Co. of America because of "difficulties" which he said the company is encountering at Cuyahoga Heights, Ohio.

"The Cuyahoga Heights councilmen have failed to agree on the issuance of a building permit (for the plant), since it is contemplated that the facility would be tax free to the community," Butler said in a statement.

"This obstacle has led many to characterize the situation as a multi-million dollar 'snafu'."

Butler disclosed that he had sent telegrams to Defense Secretary Wilson and to Irving W. Wilson, president of the Aluminum Co. of America suggesting Cumberland as an alternate choice of location for the plant, which would house two of the world's largest forging presses.

"The Maryland congressional delegation will be happy to cooperate with you in any way that it can," he told the officials.

Albert Hargreaves, industrial promotion consultant for the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, last night said he had been in touch with Alcoa representatives and federal officials for some time in an effort to bring the plant here.

Hargreaves said it had appeared until a few days ago that Cuyahoga Heights was sure of getting the new plant.

Although he said he did not want to be too optimistic, Hargreaves said Sen. Butler's statement gave rise to the possibility that the city might obtain a new major industry. Hargreaves said the Chamber of Commerce is continuing its efforts to bring the multi-million dollar plant to Cumberland.

Weicht Jailed In Car Theft

Kenneth C. Weicht, 20, of RD 2, Flintstone, yesterday was sentenced by Trial Magistrate Morris Baron to 30 days in Allegheny County jail on an auto theft charge.

Taken into custody early yesterday morning by city police Weicht was held for a hearing in Trial Magistrate Court. He admitted taking an automobile owned by Charles L. Harris, 12 Marion Street. The vehicle was found on Baltimore Street.

Police said Weicht spotted Officer P. C. Jenkins at Baltimore Street subway and fled down South George Street. He was chased to Harrison Street and nabbed by Officer Donald Smith, who had been alerted.

Weicht told authorities he was apprehended less than ten minutes after the auto theft.

William Underdonk, 603 Hill Top Drive, reported his 1947 two-door green Studebaker sedan bearing license number 643-620 was stolen between 11 p. m. Sunday and 6:15 a. m. yesterday from the B&O Bolt and Forge parking lot.

The green and white Schwinn bicycle of David Cope, 7 Euclid Place, was taken Sunday. The license number is 7102.

Woman Called For Jury Duty Dead For Year

When Deputy Sheriff William E. (Scotty) Orr called at the residence of Mrs. Maude V. Rice at McCool to summon her for service on the April grand jury in Allegheny County Circuit Court he found that she had been dead a year.

This experience occasionally occurs when the names of men are drawn because names never are removed because of death. They must be drawn from the jury box through the regular procedure.

However, the names of women were not placed in the jury box until last December, a month after the county voters approved jury service for women. So Mrs. Rice had been dead at least nine months when her name was placed in the box.

Services Are Planned At Methodist Church

Evangelistic services will be conducted each night this week through Friday at 7:30 o'clock at the Mt. Herman Methodist Church on Williams Road.

Rev. Kenneth Grove, pastor of Emmanuel Methodist Church, will be the evangelist speaker and will illustrate his lectures with chalk drawings.

Special music will be featured with the choir of the Oldtown Methodist Church guest singers to-night. Tomorrow night the Murrell's Branch choir will assist in the service.

Library Receives Books

Lofstrand Will Drop Parkway Amendment

Prospects for the construction of the C. and O. Canal Parkway between Hancock and Cumberland improved yesterday when Senator Lofstrand (R-Montgomery) reported he will not introduce an amendment which proponents fear would kill the plan.

Lofstrand said last night he will not offer an amendment which would require the federal government to give the entire canal tract back to Maryland before work on the parkway begins.

Action on the plan, under Senate Bill 211, is slated today. The bill calls for the state to purchase land for the freeway. Two amendments were tacked on the bill by the Finance committee, limiting expenditures to $350,000 and requiring that Congress provide easements to the route before work begins.

Delegate Horace P. Whitworth's bill to provide annual salaries for judges of the Orphans Courts of the state, passed the House last night.

The bill calls for a constitutional amendment, at the next election. Judges are now paid by the day and are not compensated if they are absent due to illness. The bill does not provide a salary increase, but protects the judges from losing pay due to illness or other legitimate reasons.

The Ways and Means Committee, of which Whitworth is a member, will hold a hearing Thursday on a bill which calls for the State Roads Commission to maintain bridges at Luke and Pinto in Allegheny County.

Whitworth will urge passage of the plan at the hearing. The Board of Allegheny County Commissioners has been invited to attend.

Pence Will Attend District Rec Meet

Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, will leave today for Buck Hill Falls, Pa., to attend the annual 1953 public recreation conference of the Middle Atlantic states.

The conference will be held Wednesday through Saturday and will constitute a workshop for public recreation personnel.

He will take with him 150 copies of the Rules, Regulations and Policies of the Cumberland Recreation Department to distribute to the delegates.

Escaped Convicts Are Recaptured In Winchester

Pair Fled From Near Terra Alta

Two convicts who escaped last Tuesday from Hopedont Sanitarium, near Terra Alta, W. Va., were arrested early last night by city police at Winchester, Va.

The pair, Robert A. Malcum, 22, of Points, W. Va., and Leroy Locey, 25, of Charleston, were nabbed on a Winchester street at 6:40 p. m.

No Resistance
Police Capt. J. C. Ritter said the escapees, who had been serving one- to ten-year terms for breaking and entering convictions, offered no resistance.

A three-state search for the convicts fanned out over West Virginia, Virginia and Maryland last Tuesday after the two men drove away from the tuberculosis sanitarium in a state-owned station wagon.

Malcum and Locey had been working as trustees at the institution while serving sentences to the Medium Security Prison at Hutsville.

They were returned to Romney, W. Va., late last night after waiving extradition.

Capt. Ritter said Locey and Malcum had admitted stealing one of the sanitarium's vehicles to make their escape, then abandoning it in Martinsburg, W. Va. Police there were looking for the vehicle last night.

Stole From Sailor
Ritter said they also admitted stealing $230 from a James S. Davidson, West Virginia sailor, Saturday night in Winchester.

West Virginia State Police also want to question them about the theft of a safe containing about $200 from the Henry Powell Garage at Romney last Tuesday night.

Sgt. T. W. Harrison, commander of the Romney detachment, said the safe was pried open and dumped along Jersey Mountain Road in the Points section near Malcum's home.

When authorities got word Sunday that Locey and Malcum had been seen heading for Winchester, Sgt. Harrison, Trooper D. E. Adams and Hampshire County Sheriff J. M. Buckbee went to the Virginia city to wait for them.

They later found, however, that their quarry had taken a taxi to Baltimore, but planned to return.

Winchester City Police set up a watch for them until they appeared on a street there yesterday evening. Trooper Adams and Sheriff Buckbee went to Winchester last night to pick them up for action of West Virginia authorities.

Geese Use Airport Runaway As Sign Early Spring Here

It's a sign of early spring, says Charles F. Heller, municipal airport superintendent, referring to a flock of wild Canadian geese that landed at the local air field yesterday morning and spent the day wandering around the grass and runways.

Heller said there were some 28 to 30 birds in the flock bound for the north country. They had white faces and black heads.

Their only disturbance, he added, was when the Kelly-Springfield plane landed. Then the geese took off, circled the field and landed again.

From the haphazard pattern of their flight, the geese had lost their leader, Heller conjectured.

Frederick St. Project Plans Are Expedited

$350,000 Bond Issue Plan Is Authorized

Plans for the Frederick Street extension program, major item in a $350,000 traffic improvement program authorized by the General Assembly, are being expedited, according to Mayor Roy W. Eves.

Authorization for the bond issue was received last week when Governor McKeldin signed House Bill 327, which permits the Mayor and Council to issue bonds to finance six traffic improvement projects here.

Survey Underway
The Engineering Staff, headed by C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, is now making field surveys of the Frederick Street project.

When plans are complete, officials said, they will be turned over to the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads for approval.

The city has estimated the project, which will result in one-way traffic on Frederick and Bedford Streets as part of U. S. Route 220, will cost about $500,000, with half of the cost paid by the deferral government.

Work of Frederick Street will include construction of 1.27 miles of 32 foot pavement, with five foot sidewalks on each side, and the installation of about 4,420 feet of storm sewer to drain surface water from the area.

Other Work Planned
The second item to be financed by the bond issue is the extension of George Street to Bedford Street. The work is expected to cost $54,000.

Widening of Franklin Street, from Centre to Mechanic Street, will cost about $21,000. The present roadway is 16½ feet and is to be widened to 24 feet, with eight foot sidewalks.

The plan also includes the widening of 825 feet of Thomas Street to provide a 32 foot roadway, and the widening of Orchard Street and part of Mechanic Street if funds allow.

Three Children Escape Death In $30,000 Blaze

H. C. Nicewarner Hero Of Millville Fire

A courageous quarry worker was credited with saving the lives of three small children when fire destroyed their Millville, W. Va., apartment yesterday morning.

Jefferson County Sheriff Shirley M. Hunt said the blaze, which started at 10 a. m. when a kerosene stove exploded, destroyed the second-floor apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ballanger. Millville is six miles south of Charles Town, W. Va.

The three children, all under six years of age, were alone in the apartment when the blast and the fire took place. Their father was working in the grocery store which he operated on the first floor of the building, and their mother also had gone downstairs for a moment.

Hero of the fire was Harvey C. Nicewarner, about 50, who works in the office of the Michigan Lime and Stone Quarry in Millville.

When the fire broke out, Nicewarner and Wallace Foltz, a fellow quarry employee, hurried to the scene with a ladder. Nicewarner climbed through a window of the apartment to hand the two older children out to Foltz, then waded through flames and dense smoke to rescue the Ballangers' youngest child from its crib.

No one was injured, but the apartment was completely ruined and the store was badly damaged. The Citizen and Independent volunteer fire companies from Charles Town and the Friendship company from Harper's Ferry, W. Va., answered the alarm, but quarrymen had brought the blaze under control with the quarry's fire apparatus by the time they arrived.

Damage was estimated at up to $30,000. The building is owned by Roland Whipp of Millville.

Nearly 8400 License Plates Sold Here

Nearly 8,400 Maryland license plates have been sold at the office of Tax Collector Ernest B. Treat in the Court House since the sale started three weeks ago.

Yesterday's total was over 475 plates.

Either late today or early tomorrow Treat expects to finish selling all of the plates in the GH series. Then he will start the GJ series. In each series the numbers run from 1001 to 9999. Treat's office is open from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays.

A new plate must be attached to the rear of each privately-owned automobile by midnight Tuesday, March 31.

Rotarians To Hear English Instructor

His subject will be "Our American Heritage."

Queen And Her Maids

Miss Sally Johnston (center) has been chosen Maple Queen VI for the sixth annual Somerset County Maple Festival to be held in Meyersdale, Pa., Friday and Saturday, April 17 and 18. Miss Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Milo Johnston of Circle Drive, Somerset, was chosen over nine other contestants for the royal role. Shown here with Her Highness are her Maids of Honor, Daunice Plummer of Boswell, (left) and Shirley Clark of Hooversville.

Hinebaugh Says Delegates Quiet On Whisky Plan

No Action Taken On Garrett Proposal

Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh of Oakland, who has been spearheading a move in Garrett County for the sale of legal whisky, asserted that he has received not a single word from the county's representatives in the General Assembly concerning what action they intend taking on his proposal, presented five weeks ago.

The Oakland mayor and a group of other Garrett County citizens met with State Senator Neil C. Fraley and the three Garrett County members in the House of Delegates in Annapolis February 11 to discuss their plan.

County Scores
As outlined by Mayor Hinebaugh, the bill they seek would authorize a referendum in May on the whisky question. They want to legalize the sale of whisky by the drink at bars and the purchase of whisky by the bottle from county-operated stores.

Presently, only beer can be sold legally in Garrett County. Sale of whisky has been outlawed since 1914 but a number of individuals and groups have been indicted in recent years for illegal sales of whisky.

Some 2,400 signatures were included on petitions which Hinebaugh and his associates have presented to the Garrett County representatives.

Chamber Favors Plan

Hinebaugh said last night that the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce in Oakland has gone on record as favoring the legalized sale of whisky in line with his plan.

"Even if our representatives are opposed to the idea of legalizing the sale of whisky, I can't see how they can deny the citizens of the county the right to vote on the proposal," Hinebaugh explained. When he presented his ideas in Annapolis he was accompanied by Russell Smith, O. A. K. and; Troy Friend, Garrett County lumberman; Dorsey Guard, Friendsville farmer; Ward Hinebaugh, Floyd Leighton and Earl Bailey.

Garrett County's representatives in the House of Delegates are Arthur H. Green, Swanton; Harry C. Edwards, Grantsville, and George E. Coddington, Oakland.

The current session of the General Assembly will end around April 6.

Children Get Kite Warning

Local school children have been warned to keep all kites and model airplanes away from electric power lines.

The warning was made by the Potomac Edison Company through posters which have been distributed to schools in this area.

Raymond Beard, Potomac Edison safety supervisor, stated that there still are many tragic accidents resulting each year from careless kite and model airplane flying. Fatalities are numerous and severe burns often are suffered when the necessary precautions are not heeded.

Youngsters flying kites should make sure they are kept away from electric wires. Only cotton string should be used. Metal should never be used on kites and under no conditions should poles be climbed.

"Communities, hospitals, plants are threatened by careless kite and model airplane flyers," Beard said. "Metal wires from kites or planes becoming entangled in electric wires may cause costly damage through the elimination of power to all types of establishments and homes."

Beekeeper To Speak

John Lindner Jr. will speak on "Habitats of Bees and Their Value to Mankind" at the weekly luncheon-meeting of the Kiwanis Club Thursday at 12:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Somerset Girl Chosen Sixth Maple Queen

Miss Sally Johnston To Reign April 17-18

Somerset County Maple Festival Queen this year will be Miss Sally Johnston of Somerset, who will reign over the sixth annual affair at Meyersdale, Pa., April 17-18.

Miss Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Milo Johnston, of Circle Drive, Somerset, was chosen over nine other contestants at Cambria County War Memorial auditorium in Johnstown Friday.

The slender, hazel-eyed brunette will be Queen Maple VI and the runners-up in the contest for queen will be her Maids of Honor. They are Miss Daunice Plummer of Boswell, Pa., and Miss Shirley Clark of Hooversville. The remaining seven contestants will belong to the queen's court of princesses at the maple festival.

Five judges rated the contestants on poise, personality, figure, face, talent and general appearance before making their selection. Miss Johnston, a Somerset Joint High School senior, gave a vocal solo, "Lazy River," for her talent number.

Ronald Stephenson of Johnstown was master of ceremonies for the judging event and greetings were extended by Mayor Walter Rose of Johnstown and C. J. Reich, president of the Meyersdale Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the festival.

Judges were Mrs. Elizabeth Gregg, fashion consultant of Gimbels Brothers in Pittsburgh; Mrs. Margaret Schultz, Penn Traffic Company, Johnstown; Mark Lazarus, Lazarus, Inc., Cumberland; Samuel Krnich, Brett's in Johnstown; and John F. Schaldt, advertising executive of the Times and Alleghenian Company, Cumberland.

The Maple Queen and her attendants will reign over all activities of the festival April 17-18 which honors the area's great maple industry. Included in the program will be the coronation, banquet, variety show, parade of high school bands, the queen's ball and a tour of the sugar camps.

Report Slated On Five-Day Week Proposal

City Asks Study On Police, Fire Request

City officials, headed by Mayor Eves, were emphatic in their hope that this and other working condition issues could be settled under the city's home rule legislation and not referred to Annapolis.

Mayor Eves pointed out that the city has a form of home rule and said he hoped city employees will give duly elected officials a chance to prove that home rule will work in Cumberland.

He said he believes the Mayor and Council are in a better position to work out this, and similar problems.

Asks Quick Action

Berry asked that the council take action on his requests yesterday, terming the proposal "one of the simplest problems he had ever seen before a Mayor and Council."

But Commissioner Long, Mayor Eves and Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, street commissioner, immediately disagreed, saying city officials were not prepared to act until they have full knowledge of the effect of the shorter work weeks.

The call for Keegan's report was termed "merely passing the buck" by Berry, who said he saw no reason for the delay.

One city official later pointed out that the city and the employees have been months attempting, unsuccessfully, to prepare a Civil Service Bill which has the backing of all.

Denies Buckpassing

The mayor insisted the city should have an idea of what the proposal would cost, saying "We should not go into it blindly but have an understanding of it."

Long also denied the "passing the buck" charge, he said he wants the men to have a shorter work week and promised some time ago it would be provided when funds are available.

It is not a question of cost, the cost is known, but of finance, he said in calling for Commissioner Keegan's report.

He added he was not taking issue with Berry or the men, but said the Council was elected to administer the city and he intended to do his part.

The Mayor and Council will continue discussions today on how to meet, under Cumberland's statutory home rule plan, requests for five-day work weeks submitted yesterday by the Police and Fire Departments.

The discussion is slated today at 4:45 p. m. in the Council Chamber, immediately after bids are opened for emergency repairs needed on the Public Safety Building.

Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan has been directed to present a report showing how the Police and Fire department budgets could be supplemented next year to provide for the shorter work week.

An unofficial estimate of the problem shows it would cost $25,872 for eight additional policemen and $19,404 for six more firemen. Pension payments for the additional men would boost the cost to about $47,087, or about seven cents on the tax rate.

The cost would be slightly less the first year, however, since the new men would be paid probationary salaries.

Reach No Decision

Mayor Roy W. Eves commented it is possible the issue may not be decided today since no decision was reached at a meeting following the regular council meeting.

Thomas N. Berry, attorney for the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association, proposed yesterday that the Mayor and Council grant men in the departments two consecutive days off a week, beginning July 1 or any date on which the city could pay the cost.

His proposal would give Police Department members a 40 hour week instead of the present 48. Firemen would get two consecutive days off after each five-day shift change, reducing their work week to about 60 hours.

Cumberland May Get Big Aluminum Forging Plant

Sen. Butler Says City Is Ideal Alternate Site

Alcoa Hits 'Snafu' In Cuyahoga Heights

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP) — Sen. Butler (R-Md.) today recommended Cumberland, Md., as an alternate site for a proposed new plant of the Aluminum Co. of America because of "difficulties" which he said the company is encountering at Cuyahoga Heights, Ohio.

"The Cuyahoga Heights councilmen have failed to agree on the issuance of a building permit (for the plant), since it is contemplated that the facility would be tax free to the community," Butler said in a statement.

"This obstacle has led many to characterize the situation as a multi-million dollar 'snafu'."

Butler disclosed that he had sent telegrams to Defense Secretary Wilson and to Irving W. Wilson, president of the Aluminum Co. of America suggesting Cumberland as an alternate choice of location for the plant, which would house two of the world's largest forging presses.

"The Maryland congressional delegation will be happy to cooperate with you in any way that it can," he told the officials.

Albert Hargreaves, industrial promotion consultant for the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, last night said he had been in touch with Alcoa representatives and federal officials for some time in an effort to bring the plant here.

Hargreaves said it had appeared until a few days ago that Cuyahoga Heights was sure of getting the new plant.

Although he said he did not want to be too optimistic, Hargreaves said Sen. Butler's statement gave rise to the possibility that the city might obtain a new major industry. Hargreaves said the Chamber of Commerce is continuing its efforts to bring the multi-million dollar plant to Cumberland.

Weicht Jailed In Car Theft

Kenneth C. Weicht, 20, of RD 2, Flintstone, yesterday was sentenced by Trial Magistrate Morris Baron to 30 days in Allegheny County jail on an auto theft charge.

Taken into custody early yesterday morning by city police Weicht was held for a hearing in Trial Magistrates Court. He admitted taking an automobile owned by Charles L. Harris, 12 Marion Street. The vehicle was found on Baltimore Street.

Police said Weicht spotted Officer P. C. Jenkins at Baltimore Street and fled down South George Street. He was chased to Harrison Street and nabbed by Officer Donald Smith, who had been alerted.

Weicht told authorities he was apprehended less than ten minutes after the auto theft.

William Underdonk, 603 Hill Top Drive, reported his 1947 two-door green Studebaker sedan bearing license number 643-620 was stolen between 11 p. m. Sunday and 6:15 a. m. yesterday from the B&O Bolt and Forge parking lot.

The green and white Schwinn bicycle of David Cope, 7 Euclid Place, was taken Sunday. The license number is 7102.

Woman Called For Jury Duty Dead For Year

When Deputy Sheriff William E. (Scotty) Orr called at the residence of Mrs. Maude V. Rice at McCoolle to summon her for service on the April grand jury in Allegheny County Circuit Court he found that she had been dead a year.

This experience occasionally occurs when the names of men are drawn because names never are removed because of death. They must be drawn from the jury box through the regular procedure.

However, the names of women were not placed in the jury box until last December, a month after the county voters approved jury service for women. So Mrs. Rice had been dead at least nine months when her name was placed in the box.

Services Are Planned At Methodist Church

Evangelistic services will be conducted each night this week through Friday at 7:30 o'clock at the Mt. Herman Methodist Church on Williams Road.

Rev. Kenneth Grove, pastor of Emmanuel Methodist Church, will be the evangelist speaker and will illustrate his lectures with chalk drawings.

Special music will be featured with the choir of the Oldtown Methodist Church guest singers to-night. Tomorrow night the Murrell's Branch choir will assist in the service.

Library Receives Books

Lofstrand Will Drop Parkway Amendment

Prospects for the construction of the C. and O. Canal Parkway between Hancock and Cumberland improved yesterday when Senator Lofstrand (R-Montgomery) reported he will not introduce an amendment which proponents fear would kill the plan.

Lofstrand said last night he will not offer an amendment which would require the federal government to give the entire canal tract back to Maryland before work on the parkway begins.

Action on the plan, under Senate Bill 211, is slated today. The bill calls for the state to purchase land for the freeway. Two amendments were tacked on the bill by the Finance committee, limiting expenditures to $350,000 and requiring that Congress provide easements to the route before work begins.

Delegate Horace P. Whitworth's bill to provide annual salaries for judges of the Orphans Courts of the state, passed the House last night.

The bill calls for a constitutional amendment, at the next election. Judges are now paid by the day and are not compensated if they are absent due to illness. The bill does not provide a salary increase, but protects the judges from losing pay due to illness or other legitimate reasons.

The Ways and Means Committee, of which Whitworth is a member, will hold a hearing Thursday on a bill which calls for the State Roads Commission to maintain bridges at Luke and Pinto in Allegheny County.

Whitworth will urge passage of the plan at the hearing. The Board of Allegheny County Commissioners has been invited to attend.

Pence Will Attend District Rec Meet

Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, will leave today for Buck Hill Falls, Pa., to attend the annual 1953 public recreation conference of the Middle Atlantic states.

The conference will be held Wednesday through Saturday and will constitute a workshop for public recreation personnel.

He will take with him 150 copies of the Rules, Regulations and Policies of the Cumberland Recreation Department to distribute to the delegates.

Escaped Convicts Are Recaptured In Winchester

Pair Fled From Near Terra Alta

Two convicts who escaped last Tuesday from Hopewell Sanitarium, near Terra Alta, W. Va., were arrested early last night by city police at Winchester, Va.

The pair, Robert A. Malcum, 22, of Points, W. Va., and Leroy Loecey, 25, of Charleston, were nabbed on a Winchester street at 6:40 p. m.

No Resistance

Police Capt. J. C. Ritter said the escapees, who had been serving one-to-ten-year terms for breaking and entering convictions, offered no resistance.

A three-state search for the convicts fanned out over West Virginia, Virginia and Maryland last Tuesday after the two men drove away from the tuberculosis sanitarium in a state-owned station wagon.

Malcum and Loecey had been working as trustees at the institution while serving sentences to the Medium Security Prison at Huttonsville.

They were returned to Romney, W. Va., late last night after waiving extradition.

Capt. Ritter said Loecey and Malcum had admitted stealing one of the sanitarium's vehicles to make their escape, then abandoning it in Martinsburg, W. Va. Police there were looking for the vehicle last night.

Stole From Sailor
Ritter said they also admitted stealing $250 from a James S. Davidson, West Virginia sailor, Saturday night in Winchester.

West Virginia State Police also want to question them about the theft of a safe containing about $200 from the Henry Powell Garage at Romney last Tuesday night.

Sgt. T. W. Harrison, commander of the Romney detachment, said the safe was pried open and dumped along Jersey Mountain Road in the Points section near Malcum's home.

When authorities got word Sunday that Loecey and Malcum had been seen heading for Winchester, Sgt. Harrison, Trooper D. E. Adams and Hampshire County Sheriff J. M. Buckbee went to the Virginia city to wait for them.

They later found, however, that their quarry had taken a taxi to Baltimore, but planned to return.

Winchester City Police set up a watch for them until they appeared on a street there yesterday evening. Trooper Adams and Sheriff Buckbee went to Winchester last night to pick them up for action of West Virginia authorities.

Geese Use Airport Runaway As Sign Early Spring Here

It's a sign of early spring, says Charles F. Heller, municipal airport superintendent, referring to a flock of wild Canadian geese that landed at the local air field yesterday morning and spent the day wandering around the grass and runways.

Heller said there were some 28 to 30 birds in the flock bound for the north country. They had white faces and black heads.

Their only disturbance, he added, was when the Kelly-Springfield plane landed. Then the geese took off, circled the field and landed again.

From the haphazard pattern of their flight, the geese had lost their leader, Heller conjectured.

Fredrick St. Project Plans Are Expedited

$350,000 Bond Issue Plan Is Authorized

Plans for the Frederick Street extension program, major item in a $350,000 traffic improvement program authorized by the General Assembly, are being expedited, according to Mayor Roy W. Eves.

Authorization for the bond issue was received last week when Governor McKeldin signed House Bill 327, which permits the Mayor and Council to issue bonds to finance six traffic improvement projects here.

Survey Underway

The Engineering Staff, headed by C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, is now making field surveys of the Frederick Street project.

When plans are complete, officials said, they will be turned over to the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads for approval.

The city has estimated the project, which will result in one-way traffic on Frederick and Bedford Streets as part of U. S. Route 220, will cost about $500,000, with half of the cost paid by the deferral government.

Work of Frederick Street will include construction of 1.27 miles of 32 foot pavement, with five foot sidewalks on each side, and the installation of about 4,420 feet of storm sewer to drain surface water from the area.

Other Work Planned

The second item to be financed by the bond issue is the extension of George Street to Bedford Street. The work is expected to cost $54,000.

Widening of Franklin Street, from Centre to Mechanic Street, will cost about $21,000. The present roadway is 16½ feet and is to be widened to 24 feet, with eight foot sidewalks.

The plan also includes the widening of 825 feet of Thomas Street to provide a 32 foot roadway, and the widening of Orchard Street and part of Mechanic Street if funds allow.

Three Children Escape Death In $30,000 Blaze

H. C. Nicewarner Hero Of Millville Fire

A courageous quarry worker was credited with saving the lives of three small children when fire destroyed their Millville, W. Va., Jefferson County Sheriff Shirley M. Hunt said the blaze, which started at 10 a. m. when a kerosene stove exploded, destroyed the second-floor apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ballanger. Millville is six miles south of Charles Town, W. Va.

The three children, all under six years of age, were alone in the apartment when the blast and the fire took place. Their father was working in the grocery store which he operated on the first floor of the building, and their mother also had gone downstairs for a moment.

Hero of the fire was Harvey C. Nicewarner, about 50, who works in the office of the Michigan Lime and Stone Quarry in Millville.

When the fire broke out, Nicewarner and Wallace Foltz, a fellow quarry employee, hurried to the scene with a ladder. Nicewarner climbed through a window of the apartment to hand the two older children out to Foltz, then waded through flames and dense smoke to rescue the Ballangers' youngest child from his crib.

No one was injured, but the apartment was completely ruined and the store was badly damaged. The Citizen and Independent volunteer fire companies from Charles Town and the Friendship company from Harper's Ferry, W. Va., answered the alarm, but quarrymen had brought the blaze under control with the quarry's fire apparatus by the time they arrived.

Damage was estimated at up to $30,000. The building is owned by Roland Whipp of Millville.

The current session of the General Assembly will end around April 6.

Queen And Her Maids

Hinebaugh Says Delegates Quiet On Whisky Plan

No Action Taken On Garrett Proposal

Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh of Oakland, who has been spearheading a move in Garrett County for the sale of legal whisky, asserted that he has received not a single word from the county's representatives in the General Assembly concerning what action they intend taking on his proposal, presented five weeks ago.

The Oakland mayor and a group of other Garrett County citizens met with State Senator Neil C. Fraley and the three Garrett County members in the House of Delegates in Annapolis February 11 to discuss their plan.

As outlined by Mayor Hinebaugh, the bill they seek would authorize a referendum in May on the whisky question. They want to legalize the sale of whisky by the drink at bars and the purchase of whisky by the bottle from county-operated stores.

Presently, only beer can be sold legally in Garrett County. Sale of whisky has been outlawed since 1914 but a number of individuals and groups have been indicted in recent years for illegal sales of whisky.

Some 2,400 signatures were included on petitions which Hinebaugh and his associates have presented to the Garrett County representatives.

Hinebaugh said last night that the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce in Oakland has gone on record as favoring the legalized sale of whisky in line with his plan.

"Even if our representatives are opposed to the idea of legalizing the sale of whisky, I can't see how they can deny the citizens of the county the right to vote on the proposal," Hinebaugh explained.

When he presented his ideas in Annapolis he was accompanied by Russell Smith, Oakland; Troy Friend, Garrett County lumberman; Dorsey Guard, Friendsville farmer; Ward Hinebaugh, Floyd Leighton and Earl Bailey.

Garrett County's representatives in the House of Delegates are Arthur H. Green, Swanton; Harry C. Edwards, Grantsville, and George E. Coddington, Oakland.

The current session of the General Assembly will end around April 6.

Children Get Kite Warning

Local school children have been warned to keep all kites and model airplanes away from electric power lines.

The warning was made by the Potomac Edison Company through posters which have been distributed to schools in this area.

Raymond Beard, Potomac Edison safety supervisor, stated that there still are many tragic accidents resulting each year from careless kite and model airplane flying. Fatalities are numerous and severe burns often are suffered when the necessary precautions are not heeded.

Youngsters flying kites should make sure they are kept away from electric wires. Only cotton string should be used, metal should never be used on kites and under no conditions should poles be climbed.

"Communities, hospitals, plants are threatened by careless kite and model airplane flyers," Beard said. "Metal wires from kites or planes becoming entangled in electric wires may cause costly damage through the elimination of power to all types of establishments and homes."

Either late today or early tomorrow Treat expects to finish selling all of the plates in the GH series. Then he will start the GJ series. In each series the numbers run from 1001 to 9999. Treat's office is open from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays.

John Lindner Jr. will speak on "Habits of Bees and Their Value to Mankind" at the weekly luncheon-meeting of the Kiwanis Club Thursday at 12:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Somerset Girl Chosen Sixth Maple Queen

Miss Sally Johnston To Reign April 17-18

Somerset County Maple Festival Queen this year will be Miss Sally Johnston of Somerset, who will reign over the sixth annual affair at Meyersdale, Pa., April 17-18.

Miss Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Milo Johnston, of Circle Drive, Somerset, was chosen over nine other contestants at Cambria County War Memorial auditorium in Johnstown Friday.

The slender, hazel-eyed brunette will be Queen Maple VI and the runners-up in the contest for queen will be her Maids of Honor. They are Miss Daunice Plummer of Boswell, Pa., and Miss Shirley Clark of Hooversville. The remaining seven contestants will belong to the queen's court of princesses at the maple festival.

Five judges rated the contestants on poise, personality, figure, face, talent and general appearance before making their selection. Miss Johnston, a Somerset Joint High School senior, gave a vocal solo, "Lazy River," for her talent number.

Ronald Stephenson of Johnstown was master of ceremonies for the judging event and greetings were extended by Mayor Walter Rose of Johnstown and C. J. Reich, president of the Meyersdale Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the festival.

Judges were Mrs. Elizabeth Gregg, fashion consultant of Gimbels Brothers in Pittsburgh; Mrs. Margaret Schultz, Penn Traffic Company, Johnstown; Mark Lazarus, Lazarus, Inc., Cumberland; Samuel Kranich, Brett's in Johnstown; and John F. Schadt, advertising executive of the Times and Alleganian Company, Cumberland.

The Maple Queen and her attendants will reign over all activities of the festival April 17-18 which honors the area's great maple industry. Included in the program will be the coronation, banquet, variety show, parade of high school bands, the queen's ball and a tour of the sugar camps.

He added he was not taking issue with Berry or the men, but said the Council was elected to administer the city and he intended to do his part.

The Mayor and Council will continue discussions today on how to meet, under Cumberland's statutory home rule plan, requests for five-day work weeks submitted yesterday by the Police and Fire Departments.

The discussion is slated today at 4:45 p. m. in the Council Chamber, immediately after bids are opened for emergency repairs needed on the Public Safety Building.

Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan has been directed to present a report showing how the Police and Fire department budgets could be supplemented next year to provide for the shorter work week.

An unofficial estimate of the problem shows it would cost $25,872 for eight additional policemen and $19,404 for six more firemen. Pension payments for the additional men would boost the cost to about $47,087, or about seven cents to the tax rate.

The cost would be slightly less the first year, however, since the new men would be paid probationary salaries.

Reich No Decision
Mayor Roy W. Eves commented it is possible the issue may not be decided today since no decision was reached at a meeting following the regular council meeting.

Thomas N. Berry, attorney for the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association, proposed yesterday that the Mayor and Council grant men in the departments two consecutive days off a week, beginning July 1 or any date on which the city could pay the cost.

His proposal would give Police Department members a 40 hour week instead of the present 48. Firemen would get two consecutive days off after each five-day shift change, reducing their work week to about 60 hours.

Question Of Finance
